Stassen Gets Month's Leave

6th Fleet Key To Mediterranean

Adm. Burke Says Area Could Be Lost In Event Of A War

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Adm. Arleigh Burke says the free world would have to write off the entire Mediterranean area unless the U. S. 6th Fleet could stay and fight there in event of war.

The chief of naval operations also said in recent congressional testimony made public tonight that the American Navy might be the only major force capable of continuing retaliatory assaults after the first furious exchange of atomic blows in another world conflict.

The admiral said that if U. S. carrier task forces "cannot operate in the Mediterranean, we have lost the Mediterranean, and we had better be able to operate in the Mediterranean because of that."

Testifies Before Senate

Burke testified at a special Senate airpower investigation before an international crisis was precipitated in the area by Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal, which links the Mediterranean with the Red Sea.

Some of his testimony was given behind closed doors and this was released tonight after being censored by the Defense Department.

Both the State Department and the Navy today denied a published report that the 6th Fleet had been specially alerted to take Americans out of the area if the Suez crises flares into violence.

Both agencies said the fleet has standing orders to protect the lives and property of Americans.

Burke, in his testimony before the committee headed by Sen. Symington (D-Mo), said that if the U. S. Fleet cannot stay in the Mediterranean with carriers "nobody can stay there."

He said emphatically that land-based planes could not operate in the area unless the fleet was there and fighting.

Less Likelihood Of War

However, Burke said, he saw "less and less likelihood" of a general war with Russia, pinning his opinion on an estimate that Russian defenses "would have to be very fine, much better than I think they are now" before the Soviets would risk starting a general conflict.

Burke conceded under questioning that "we would be in tough shape" if the Communists deployed as many as 500 submarines to launch hydrogen missiles against the United States. He said the Soviets now have more than 400 submarines and are building more at a far greater rate than is the United States.

He said that in the event of war the U.S. Navy would expect the Soviets to have some missile-launching submarines and "some of them will get in because we won't be able to get them all."

Burke indicated the Navy's prime weapon against submarines would be the Regulus missile, which would be launched from ships and submarines offshore against Soviet submarine bases.

President Signs Numerous Bills At Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 31 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed more than a score of bills into law today and kept posted regarding the Suez Canal crisis.

The President also conferred with Harold E. Stassen and it was announced afterward that Stassen had requested a month's leave of absence as the President's disarmament aide "to pursue certain political activities." Eisenhower approved the request, effective Thursday.

The "certain political activities" obviously referred to Stassen's efforts to "dump" Vice President Nixon from the 1956 Republican ticket and replace him with Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

The President, planning to fly back to Washington tomorrow morning after a long weekend at his country estate, signed 26 more bills out of the big batch which Congress passed before adjourning last Friday night. One of the bills Eisenhower approved authoritizes 46½ million dollars for construction of the world's first nuclear-powered ship.

Another measure signed into law gives a go-ahead on a three-year, 90-million-dollar program of federal grants for help in construction of health research facilities.

In a statement on that bill, the President called it "an important step forward" but said the measure "is deficient in two important respects."

He said it "fails to provide assistance . . . for construction of facilities for training of medical scientists, and the amounts authorized are inadequate in the light of these needs."

Noting the administration had asked for a broader, 250-million-dollar program, the President expressed hope the next Congress will meet the full request.

Weather permitting, Eisenhower intends to return to Washington by plane in the morning. Shortly after arriving at the White House he will confer with Secretary of State Dulles regarding the Suez Canal crisis.

On Wednesday morning, Eisenhower will hold his first news conference since since he underwent abdominal surgery on June 9.

Marine To Attempt To Swim Lake Erie

SANDUSKY, Ohio, July 30 (AP)—Harry H. Briggs Jr., a first lieutenant in the Marine reserves and a college teacher, will attempt to swim 34 miles in Lake Erie from Pelee Pelee Point, Ont., to Cedar Point, Ohio, Saturday.

No one is known to have covered the rough stretch.

Briggs, 35, a bachelor, is now on temporary duty with the Marines in Toledo. In the fall, he will return as associate professor of education at Kansas State Teachers College in Emporia, Kan.

Kennedys Expecting Their First Child

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30 (AP)—Friends of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Mrs. Kennedy learned over the weekend that Mrs. Kennedy is expecting her first child in October.

Kennedy and the former Miss Jacqueline Lee Bouviere were married in St. Mary's church here Sept. 12, 1953.

Chicago Polio Cases Reach 422, Salk Program Rushed

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP) — Polio cases reached 422 for this year in Chicago today—more than the 391 reported for the entire year of 1955.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen said that 63 new cases were reported during a three-day period ending at midnight Sunday as Chicago rushed its mass Salk vaccine inoculation program to prevent a polio epidemic.

Two weekend deaths—those of a 5-year-old boy and a 14-year-old girl, neither of whom had received vaccine shots—brought the number of fatalities since Jan. 1 to 11. This was two less than the number of polio deaths for all last year.

The months usually bringing the greatest number of cases are immediately ahead — August and September.

Only 65 of the 422 cases to date have been among persons over 14 years of age—about 15 per cent. In the age group under 5 years, there have been 248 cases, or 59 per cent of the total. There were 109 cases reported in children from 6 through 14—the most heavily inoculated group—or 26 per cent.

Of the victims this year, 37 had received Salk vaccine, but none received the full three-inoculation course. Twenty-one of those who had been inoculated were afflicted with the paralytic type of polio, six after having received two shots, and 15 after only one shot.

Held In Bank Robbery

Jury Convicts Delli-Pizzi Of Manslaughter

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 30 (AP)—An all-male jury tonight convicted Gregory M. Delli-Pizzi of manslaughter in the death of Dr. Richard M. Wick.

The jury reached its verdict after 2½ hours of deliberations in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

Delli-Pizzi was released in $10,000 bail pending imposition of sentence. Judge Benjamin Michaelson said any motions by the defense would be argued Friday, the date set for sentencing.

Delli-Pizzi, 26-year-old University of Maryland student from Weirton, W. Va., testified at his second trial. He was indicted on a murder charge in the death of Dr. Richard M. Wick, Bethlehem Steel Co. employe from Allentown, Pa. The State had asked for a finding of manslaughter.

Wick died last Feb. 18 two days after he was struck by Delli-Pizzi in the lobby of a Baltimore hotel. The first trial in Baltimore ended in a jury disagreement and the retrial was moved here.

The medical student testified he tried to talk to Dr. Wick as he left a Baltimore night club about advances allegedly made to Delli-Pizzi's girl friend, a tap-dancer. He said she told him Wick was one of the "most aggressive men" she had ever encountered.

Delli-Pizzi said Wick only grunted in response. He said he followed the older man into the lobby of the hotel calling him "sir" in an attempt to speak to him.

Dr. Wick turned and "rushed at me," Delli-Pizzi said. He said he became very frightened because Dr. Wick was a big man.

"The lapels of his coat which I was holding slipped out of my hand and I hit him once," he testified. The medical student said he rushed from the lobby and didn't see Dr. Wick's head strike the marble floor.

Burglars Didn't Leave Anything

MEXICO CITY, July 30 (AP)—A landlord took a potential tenant to look at his house only to find he had no house left to rent.

Hugo Olivos Chazaro was told by nearby neighbors yesterday that a truckload of men had driven up Saturday, moved out all the bath fixtures, kitchen equipment and other items and then demolished the house with pickaxes and sledge hammers.

They said they did nothing because they thought he had ordered it done.

TAIPEI, July 30 (AP)—Special police squads will patrol this Formosan capital around the clock to pounce on juvenile hoodlums whose activities have been increasing.

Dr. Used Wrong Vaccine When His Supply Ran Out

AARHUS, Denmark July 30 (AP)—Dr. Karl Stevad, 48, was committed to a mental hospital today upon a complaint that he used the wrong vaccine to inoculate 372 patients seeking immunity from polio.

Health authorities said Dr. Stevad admitted he injected anti-diphtheria serum into them, turning to that serum when his supply of polio vaccine ran out.

The case came to light when one of the patients asked the advice of another physician on a sudden swelling caused by the injection. All the patients have been advised to seek new polio inoculations.

Suez Charges Won't Be Hiked

CAIRO, Egypt, July 30 (AP) — Egypt announced today that toll charges would not be raised on shipping through the Suez Canal.

Finance Minister Abdel Moneim Kaissuny made the statement to reporters after a three-hour meeting with President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Commerce Minister Mohamed Abou Nosseir.

He said they discussed all eventualities, including economic and trade problems, that had arisen from Egypt's nationalization of the 103-mile waterway. Nasser announced the move in Alexandria Thursday. Britain, France, and the United States are conferring on it in London.

In his announcement, Nasser had said the Suez Canal Co.'s annual income was 100 million dollars.

Since the company's 1955 net income was only 46 million, it had been speculated that Egypt would double the toll charges.

Pays To Read The Fine Print

WATERLOO, Ont. July 30 (AP)—City Hall officials have been puzzled for some time by a car occasionally parked in the City Hall lot bearing a sticker which said, in big red letters: "OFFICIAL."

Today they got around to reading the fine print on the sticker, which read in full: "Canadian Government Official Taxpayer."

Egyptians, Israelis Fire At Each Other

JERUSALEM, July 30 (AP) — An Israeli army spokesman said Egyptians in the southern Gaza Strip fired three times today into Israeli territory and Israeli forces returned the fire.

The spokesman charged the Egyptians directed one attack at Keren Avshalom settlement to the east of the Israeli-Egyptian demarcation line and two at an Israeli army outpost in the same region.

18 Survivors Of Climbing Mishap Safe

TIMBERLINE LODGE, Ore., July 30 (AP)—The 18 maimed and injured survivors of a mountain-climbing accident were safe today after a long ordeal at the bottom of a fume-filled crevasse.

Fifteen-year-old Lynn Kaufman of Larchmont, N. Y., was killed in the mishap yesterday on the slopes of the 11,235-foot Cascade peak of Mt. Hood. She was pounded into a snow drift when her 18 climbing companions tumbled down a 40-foot cliff onto her already broken body.

The climbers were roped together on a single lifeline when one of them slipped. Then the whole screaming group lost footing and catapulted 400 feet down the steep slope and plunged into the crevasse, one on top of the other.

Tom Pfau of Salem, Ore., who also was climbing the mountain, saw them fall. He made his way to the side of the crevasse.

"People were down in the bottom of the crevasse, all in a mess," he said.

He climbed down to the floor of the pit, where sulphur fumes from the old volcano seeped out of rocky vents.

"All I had was a pocket knife, but I started to use it to cut people free from the rope and drag them to the edge of the cliff."

He hurried down to this resort lodge and spread the alarm that brought more than 100 rescuers to the scene.

It took more than two hours to get all the injured out of the pit, and nearly 12 hours to bring them here by litter and snow tractor. Only two were able to walk.

Susan Stein, 16, of Baltimore, suffered a skull fracture and Suzanne Blum, 16, Baldwin, N.Y. had a fractured spine. They were in critical condition.

The others were hurt less seriously although a number of them had broken bones.

Bus Differences Lead To Violence

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, July 30 (AP)—Differences over a bus boycott campaign led to violence last night at Evaton, south of Johannesburg. A band of blanket-clad Africans who object to another faction's boycott of the Johannesburg-Evaton bus service attacked the town. Four persons were killed and six injured. Seven houses burned.

A fare increase in June, since rescinded, is reported to have set off quarreling between the two factions over patronage of the line.

LISBON, Portugal, July 30 (AP)—U.S. Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker, who arrived by plane from Madrid, left for Washington tonight.

U.S. Asked To Back Suez Control Plan

Britain Halts All Arms Shipments To Egypt; Ban On Exports Lifted

LONDON, July 30 (AP) — Britain and France asked the United States today to back a plan for an international control board to guarantee that the Suez Canal remains an international waterway open to all nations in war and peace. The board would include Egypt and Soviet Russia.

Prime Minister Eden announced a second retaliatory slap for President Gamal Abdel Nasser's Suez nationalization—the halting of all British arms shipments to Egypt.

On the other hand, Egyptian customs officials at Alexandria announced without explanation the lifting of the ban on exports to Britain and her Commonwealth which are paid for in British currency. Four ships bound for Britain, whose $420,000 cargoes of cotton and rice had been unloaded, were ordered reloaded.

The British Foreign Office also received word that Egypt had canceled its order to canal officials not to accept checks on London or Paris banks in payment of tolls.

Officials Consider Plan

Meeting in an atompshere of crisis, with large crowds gathering outside the Prime Minister's residence and the British press urging forceful action, officials of Britain, France and the United States considered a plan that would in effect recognize Egypt's nationalization of the canal company, but assure international use of the waterway.

British and French informants who disclosed the plan said Egypt, as well as Russia, would be a member of the international board, and that Egypt would share in revenues of the canal's operation. Russia was one of the nine signers of the 1888 Constantinople convention which declared the canal open to all nations in peace and war.

If the plan is settled upon by the three Western powers, they would seek an international conference of the maritime powers to put it into effect.

The proposal was readied by military, legal, political and economic advisers to British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, and Robert D. Murphy, the U. S. deputy undersecretary of state, who have been conferring here since Sunday.

Announce Arms Ban

The British and French, however, considered American support essential to the plan, and apparently were waiting for Murphy to receive instructions from Washington.

Under pressure by both Conservatives and Laborites to take decisive action to assure Britain's lifeline and oil supplies, Eden announced the arms ban on Egypt in a brief statement in the House of Commons.

The exact significance of the move could not be assessed immediately as Britain keeps secret the details of her arms sales abroad.

Since Egypt began buying arms from the Soviet bloc, British military sales to the Nile republic have been slowed down. But at least two destroyers—Al Quaher and Al Fateh—being readied at Portsmouth for delivery to the Egyptians were affected.

Eden said "no arrangements for the future of this great interna-

Jury Acquits Buddy Baer

VAN NUYS, Calif., July 30 (AP)—A Municipal Court jury today acquitted actor Buddy Baer of one count of child molestation and another charging him with being a lewd vagrant.

The jury deliberated an hour and 40 minutes. Earlier today two other charges of child molestation had been dismissed by Judge Kenneth L. Holaday on motion of Baer's attorney.

The charges against the 41-year-old actor, singer and former pugilist, brother of onetime heavyweight champion Max Baer, had been brought by two 10-year-old girls and one 12.

Throughout the trial, which began last Wednesday, Baer denied the charges and contended it was a clear case of mistaken identity.

He testified he was working on a television film on the afternoon of June 27, when the offenses were alleged to have occurred. Asst. Director James R. Nicholson corroborated his testimony.

RECOVERS — Jean Margetts, 18, of Sunnyside, Calif., smiles happily while reading get-well cards just before her discharge from the hospital at Salt Lake City, Utah. Funerals Held For Victims Of Oil Explosions

DUMAS, Tex., July 30 (AP)—Funerals began today for 19 men killed yesterday when they were hit by a searing wall of superheated flame from an exploding 20,000-gallon petroleum tank.

Thirty-one other persons were injured. Seven of them remained in serious condition.

Only one of the four petroleum tanks that exploded and burned still was afire today. It was under control and offered no threat to the rest of the sprawling, 75-million-dollar tank farm and refinery installations.

Ten funerals were held today. Merchants of this town of 8,000 closed their businesses from 2 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. because of the rites and will do the same tomorrow.

The fire started in a 20,000-gallon mixing tank filled with highly volatile pentane. Apparently this was the tank that exploded. Three other tanks of petroleum products were set afire. The refinery, some distance away, was not damaged.

Nine of the men caught and killed were plant workers. Ten were members of volunteer fire fighting departments.

Fifteen men "died in their tracks," as one witness said. Four others died later from burns.

The tank farm and refinery belonged to the Sharmrock Oil & Gas Corp., Amarillo, Tex.

Between 100 and 150 spectators were present when the tanks went up. Some of them were burned.

Schools Are Burned

TAKAYAMA, Japan, July 30 (AP)—Fires destroyed parts of two high schools two miles apart over the weekend. That made four schools destroyed or damaged in the city during the past year by fires police believe were deliberately set.

Ike Grants Request After Conference

Will Have Both Hands Free To Swerve GOP Nomination To Herter

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP),—Harold Stassen is taking a month off from his White House job in an effort to swerve the GOP vice presidential nomination from Richard Nixon to Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

President Eisenhower granted his request for leave of absence today, and now apparently Stassen will have both hands free to try to rearrange the bottom half of the GOP ticket.

The leave of absence, effective Thursday, was announced in a White House statement issued at Gettysburg, Pa., where Stassen conferred with Eisenhower for 20 minutes this morning. The statement said in part:

"Mr. Stassen wanted to have the time and the opportunity to pursue certain political activities without involving his official position or the White House."

Assistant On Disarmament

Stassen is the President's assistant on disarmament matters and has a desk in the executive offices.

After he plumped for Herter last Monday, 20 congressmen angrily demanded that he resign from his White House post. Herter said he would nominate Nixon for re-election.

Stassen said in Washington today he was pleased that Eisenhower had approved a leave of absence.

"On Thursday, Aug. 2," he added in a statement, "I will make a further statement about my continuing endeavor to add to the strength of the Eisenhower campaign and to the Republican congressional races through the nomination of an Eisenhower-Herter ticket."

There was immediate speculation on whether the President's granting of leave implied a go-ahead for Stassen or whether, on the other hand, it represented a desire that Stassen divorce his highly controversial political activities from his White House assignment.

Eisenhower hasn't even hinted how he would feel about having Herter as a running mate, but some weeks ago, before Stassen ran up the Herter banner, Eisenhower said he would be "delighted" to have Nixon with him.

Stassen is booming the Massachusetts governor on the strength of privately conducted polls which he said show that an Eisenhower-Herter ticket would run six per cent stronger than one composed of Eisenhower and Nixon.

Hasn't Received Support

So far he hasn't picked up any substantial support from Republican ranks. However, with money furnished by a group of Republican leaders, Stassen has commissioned a new and broader poll of public sentiment on the GOP vice presidential question. Professional interviewers started out on it today.

Smiling and seemingly relaxed, Stassen told a reporter late today

Saved Records May Place Blame In Ships Collision

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)— Ship records which may prove invaluable in pinpointing the blame for last week's Atlantic ship collision were saved from the sinking Italian liner Andrea Doria, it was disclosed today.

Such records usually include a vital hourly record of the ship's course, communications and navigational conditions.

It was thought in many quarters earlier that the vessel's log went to the bottom of the ocean with the ship following its collision late Wednesday night with the Swedish motorship Stockholm.

However, the Italian Line, operator of the Andrea Doria, reported today that its logs were saved by Capt. Piero Calamai, the last man to quit the ship.

The records were turned over to the Italian consulate here. The consulate said an informal inquiry is under way, but declined to list the documents or divulge their contents.

The U.S. government is not officially concerned with a direct investigation of its own because the crash occurred outside American territorial waters—some 45 miles south of Nantucket island off the Massachusetts coast. Further, no U.S. vessel was involved.

However, both the House Merchant Marine Committee of Congress and the Coast Guard plan careful studies of information obtained in Swedish or Italian inquiries to see if U.S. ship-operating regulations may need tightening in the interests of greater safety.

While the nature of the records saved from the Andrea Doria was not made public, a U.S. maritime specialist said those required on American vessels included the ship's log, the bridge book, radio log, engineering log and engineer's bell book.

The bridge book probably would be of greatest significance, he said, because it normally includes notations written immediately by the officer manning the wheel on the bridge.

Capt. Calamai said he was on the bridge of his ship when the collision occurred at 11:20 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Andrea Doria's death list remained at two known dead and 18 missing and presumed dead—but the number of those additionally unaccounted for was reduced from 37 to 29.

Today's Chuckle

"No, I won't marry you," said the girl.

"Then I lose $10," said the boy. "I bet my roommate $10 you would."

"Then I will," the girl declared. "I didn't know you had $10."

Wick died last Feb. 18 two days after he was struck by Delli-Pizzi in the lobby of a Baltimore hotel. The first trial in Baltimore ended in a jury disagreement and the retrial was moved here.

The medical student testified he tried to talk to Dr. Wick as he left a Baltimore night club about advances allegedly made to Delli-Pizzi's girl friend, a tap-dancer. He said she told him Wick was one of the "most aggressive men" she had ever encountered.

Delli-Pizzi said Wick only grunted in response. He said he followed the older man into the lobby of the hotel calling him "sir" in an attempt to speak to him.

Dr. Wick turned and "rushed at me," Delli-Pizzi said. He said he became very frightened because Dr. Wick was a big man.

"The lapels of his coat which I was holding slipped out of my hand and I hit him once," he testified. The medical student said he rushed from the lobby and didn't see Dr. Wick's head strike the marble floor.

Burglars Didn't Leave Anything

MEXICO CITY, July 30 (AP)—A landlord took a potential tenant to look at his house only to find he had no house left to rent.

Hugo Olivos Chazaro was told by nearby neighbors yesterday that a truckload of men had driven up Saturday, moved out all the bath fixtures, kitchen equipment and other items and then demolished the house with pick-axes and sledge hammers.

They said they did nothing because they thought he had ordered it done.

TAIPEI, July 30 (AP)—Special police squads will patrol this Formosan capital around the clock to pounce on juvenile hoodlums whose activities have been increasing.

Dr. Used Wrong Vaccine When His Supply Ran Out

AARHUS, Denmark July 30 (AP)—Dr. Karl Stevad, 48, was committed to a mental hospital today upon a complaint that he used the wrong vaccine to inoculate 372 patients seeking immunity from polio.

Health authorities said Dr. Stevad admitted he injected anti-diphtheria serum into them, turning to that serum when his supply of polio vaccine ran out.

The case came to light when one of the patients asked the advice of another physician on a sudden swelling caused by the injection. All the patients have been advised to seek new polio inoculations.

Suez Charges Won't Be Hiked

CAIRO, Egypt, July 30 (AP) — Egypt announced today that toll charges would not be raised on shipping through the Suez Canal.

Finance Minister Abdel Moneim Kaissuny made the statement to reporters after a three-hour meeting with President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Commerce Minister Mohamed Abou Nosseir.

He said they discussed all eventualities, including economic and trade problems, that had arisen from Egypt's nationalization of the 103-mile waterway. Nasser announced the move in Alexandria Thursday. Britain, France, and the United States are conferring on it in London.

In his announcement, Nasser had said the Suez Canal Co.'s annual income was 100 million dollars.

Since the company's 1955 net income was only 46 million, it had been speculated that Egypt would double the toll charges.

Pays To Read The Fine Print

WATERLOO, Ont. July 30 (AP)—City Hall officials have been puzzled for some time by a car occasionally parked in the City Hall lot bearing a sticker which said, in big red letters: "OFFICIAL."

Today they got around to reading the fine print on the sticker, which read in full: "Canadian Government Official Taxpayer."

Egyptians, Israelis Fire At Each Other

JERUSALEM, July 30 (AP) — An Israeli army spokesman said Egyptians in the southern Gaza Strip fired three times today into Israeli territory and Israeli forces returned the fire.

The spokesman charged the Egyptians directed one attack at Keren Avshalom settlement to the east of the Israeli-Egyptian demarcation line and two at an Israeli army outpost in the same region.

18 Survivors Of Climbing Mishap Safe

TIMBERLINE LODGE, Ore., July 30 (AP)—The 18 maimed and injured survivors of a mountain-climbing accident were safe today after a long ordeal at the bottom of a fume-filled crevasse.

Fifteen-year-old Lynn Kaufman of Larchmont, N. Y., was killed in the mishap yesterday on the slopes of the 11,235-foot Cascade peak of Mt. Hood. She was pounded into a snow drift when her 18 climbing companions tumbled down a 40-foot cliff onto her already broken body.

The climbers were roped together on a single lifeline when one of them slipped. Then the whole screaming group lost footing and catapulted 400 feet down the steep slope and plunged into the crevasse, one on top of the other.

Tom Pfau of Salem, Ore., who also was climbing the mountain, saw them fall. He made his way to the side of the crevasse.

"People were down in the bottom of the crevasse, all in a mess," he said.

He climbed down to the floor of the pit, where sulphur fumes from the old volcano seeped out of rocky vents.

"All I had was a pocket knife, but I started to use it to cut people free from the rope and drag them to the edge of the cliff."

He hurried down to this resort lodge and spread the alarm that brought more than 100 rescuers to the scene.

It took more than two hours to get all the injured out of the pit, and nearly 12 hours to bring them here by litter and snow tractor. Only two were able to walk.

Susan Stein, 16, of Baltimore, suffered a skull fracture and Suzanne Blum, 16, Baldwin, N.Y. had a fractured spine. They were in critical condition.

The others were hurt less seriously although a number of them had broken bones.

Bus Differences Lead To Violence

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, July 30 (AP)—Differences over a bus boycott campaign led to violence last night at Evaton, south of Johannesburg. A band of blanket-clad Africans who object to another faction's boycott of the Johannesburg-Evaton bus service attacked the town. Four persons were killed and six injured. Seven houses burned.

A fare increase in June, since rescinded, is reported to have set off quarreling between the two factions over patronage of the line.

LISBON, Portugal, July 30 (AP)—U.S. Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker, who arrived by plane from Madrid, left for Washington tonight.

Britain Halts All Arms Shipments To Egypt; Ban On Exports Lifted

LONDON, July 30 (AP) — Britain and France asked the United States today to back a plan for an international control board to guarantee that the Suez Canal remains an international waterway open to all nations in war and peace. The board would include Egypt and Soviet Russia.

Prime Minister Eden announced a second retaliatory slap for President Gamal Abdel Nasser's Suez nationalization—the halting of all British arms shipments to Egypt.

On the other hand, Egyptian customs officials at Alexandria announced without explanation the lifting of the ban on exports to Britain and her Commonwealth which are paid for in British currency. Four ships bound for Britain, whose $420,000 cargoes of cotton and rice had been unloaded, were ordered reloaded.

The British Foreign Office also received word that Egypt had canceled its order to canal officials not to accept checks on London or Paris banks in payment of tolls.

Officials Consider Plan

Meeting in an atompshere of crisis, with large crowds gathering outside the Prime Minister's residence and the British press urging forceful action, officials of Britain, France and the United States considered a plan that would in effect recognize Egypt's nationalization of the canal company, but assure international use of the waterway.

British and French informants who disclosed the plan said Egypt, as well as Russia, would be a member of the international board, and that Egypt would share in revenues of the canal's operation. Russia was one of the nine signers of the 1888 Constantinople convention which declared the canal open to all nations in peace and war.

If the plan is settled upon by the three Western powers, they would seek an international conference of the maritime powers to put it into effect.

The proposal was readied by military, legal, political and economic advisers to British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, and Robert D. Murphy, the U. S. deputy undersecretary of state, who have been conferring here since Sunday.

Announce Arms Ban

The British and French, however, considered American support essential to the plan, and apparently were waiting for Murphy to receive instructions from Washington.

Under pressure by both Conservatives and Laborites to take decisive action to assure Britain's lifeline and oil supplies, Eden announced the arms ban on Egypt in a brief statement in the House of Commons.

The exact significance of the move could not be assessed immediately as Britain keeps secret the details of her arms sales abroad.

Since Egypt began buying arms from the Soviet bloc, British military sales to the Nile republic have been slowed down. But at least two destroyers—Al Quaher and Al Fateh—being readied at Portsmouth for delivery to the Egyptians were affected.

Eden said "no arrangements for the future of this great interna-

Jury Acquits Buddy Baer

VAN NUYS, Calif., July 30 (AP)—A Municipal Court jury today acquitted actor Buddy Baer of one count of child molestation and another charging him with being a lewd vagrant.

The jury deliberated an hour and 40 minutes. Earlier today two other charges of child molestation had been dismissed by Judge Kenneth L. Holaday on motion of Baer's attorney.

The charges against the 41-year-old actor, singer and former pugilist, brother of onetime heavyweight champion Max Baer, had been brought by two 10-year-old girls and one 12.

Throughout the trial, which began last Wednesday, Baer denied the charges and contended it was a clear case of mistaken identity.

He testified he was working on a television film on the afternoon of June 27, when the offenses were alleged to have occurred. Asst. Director James R. Nicholson corroborated his testimony.

Funerals Held For Victims Of Oil Explosions

DUMAS, Tex., July 30 (AP)—Funerals began today for 19 men killed yesterday when they were hit by a searing wall of superheated flame from an exploding 20,000-gallon petroleum tank.

Thirty-one other persons were injured. Seven of them remained in serious condition.

Only one of the four petroleum tanks that exploded and burned still was afire today. It was under control and offered no threat to the rest of the sprawling, 75-million-dollar tank farm and refinery installations.

Ten funerals were held today. Merchants of this town of 8,000 closed their businesses from 2 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. because of the rites and will do the same tomorrow.

The fire started in a 20,000-gallon mixing tank filled with highly volatile pentane. Apparently this was the tank that exploded. Three other tanks of petroleum products were set afire. The refinery, some distance away, was not damaged.

Nine of the men caught and killed were plant workers. Ten were members of volunteer fire fighting departments.

Fifteen men "died in their tracks," as one witness said. Four others died later from burns.

The tank farm and refinery belonged to the Sharmrock Oil & Gas Corp., Amarillo, Tex.

Between 100 and 150 spectators were present when the tanks went up. Some of them were burned.

Ike Grants Request After Conference

Will Have Both Hands Free To Swerve GOP Nomination To Herter

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP),—Harold Stassen is taking a month off from his White House job in an effort to swerve the GOP vice presidential nomination from Richard Nixon to Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

President Eisenhower granted his request for leave of absence today, and now apparently Stassen will have both hands free to try to rearrange the bottom half of the GOP ticket.

The leave of absence, effective Thursday, was announced in a White House statement issued at Gettysburg, Pa., where Stassen conferred with Eisenhower for 20 minutes this morning. The statement said in part:

"Mr. Stassen wanted to have the time and the opportunity to pursue certain political activities without involving his official position or the White House."

Assistant On Disarmament

Stassen is the President's assistant on disarmament matters and has a desk in the executive offices.

After he plumped for Herter last Monday, 20 congressmen angrily demanded that he resign from his White House post. Herter said he would nominate Nixon for re-election.

Stassen said in Washington today he was pleased that Eisenhower had approved a leave of absence.

"On Thursday, Aug. 2," he added in a statement, "I will make a further statement about my continuing endeavor to add to the strength of the Eisenhower campaign and to the Republican congressional races through the nomination of an Eisenhower-Herter ticket."

There was immediate speculation on whether the President's granting of leave implied a go-ahead for Stassen or whether, on the other hand, it represented a desire that Stassen divorce his highly controversial political activities from his White House assignment.

Eisenhower hasn't even hinted how he would feel about having Herter as a running mate, but some weeks ago, before Stassen ran up the Herter banner, Eisenhower said he would be "delighted" to have Nixon with him.

Stassen is booming the Massachusetts governor on the strength of privately conducted polls which he said show that an Eisenhower-Herter ticket would run six per cent stronger than one composed of Eisenhower and Nixon.

Hasn't Received Support

So far he hasn't picked up any substantial support from Republican ranks. However, with money furnished by a group of Republican leaders, Stassen has commissioned a new and broader poll of public sentiment on the GOP vice presidential question. Professional interviewers started out on it today.

Smiling and seemingly relaxed, Stassen told a reporter late today

Saved Records May Place Blame In Ships Collision

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)— Ship records which may prove invaluable in pinpointing the blame for last week's Atlantic ship collision were saved from the sinking Italian liner Andrea Doria, it was disclosed today.

Such records usually include a vital hourly record of the ship's course, communications and navigational conditions.

It was thought in many quarters earlier that the vessel's log went to the bottom of the ocean with the ship following its collision late Wednesday night with the Swedish motorship Stockholm.

However, the Italian Line, operator of the Andrea Doria, reported today that its logs were saved by Capt. Piero Calamai, the last man to quit the ship.

The records were turned over to the Italian consulate here. The consulate said an informal inquiry is under way, but declined to list the documents or divulge their contents.

The U.S. government is not officially concerned with a direct investigation of its own because the crash occurred outside American territorial waters—some 45 miles south of Nantucket island off the Massachusetts coast. Further, no U.S. vessel was involved.

However, both the House Merchant Marine Committee of Congress and the Coast Guard plan careful studies of information obtained in Swedish or Italian inquiries to see if U.S. ship-operating regulations may need tightening in the interests of greater safety.

While the nature of the records saved from the Andrea Doria was not made public, a U.S. maritime specialist said those required on American vessels included the ship's log, the bridge book, radio log, engineering log and engineer's bell book.

The bridge book probably would be of greatest significance, he said, because it normally includes notations written immediately by the officer manning the wheel on the bridge.

Capt. Calamai said he was on the bridge of his ship when the collision occurred at 11:20 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Andrea Doria's death list remained at two known dead and 18 missing and presumed dead—but the number of those additionally unaccounted for was reduced from 37 to 29.

NAACP Levy To Stand Judge Says

Group Refuses To Divulge Records

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 30 (AP)—A state judge refused today to modify or set aside a $100,000 fine against the NAACP.

The fine, levied by Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones Wednesday for contempt of court, goes into effect at midnight tonight.

NAACP lawyers asked the judge not to require them to fulfill his order to produce their Alabama membership lists with other records. The organization expressed fear of economic reprisals and the "use of actual force" if the 14,566 names of Alabama NAACP members were made public.

The attorneys offered to turn over to the court other records sought by Atty. Gen. John Patterson in connection with an injunction against the NAACP's doing business in Alabama. Last week, Jones found the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People in what he called "brazen contempt" of court for not yielding an extensive volume of records on Alabama operations.

Jones turned down flatly the request to withhold membership lists. That left $10,000 fine assessed Wednesday due to rise to $100,000 if the records were not in his court by midnight.

Attorneys presented a statement by the NAACP national secretary, Roy Wilkins, saying NAACP members have lost their jobs because they sought public school integration. Wilkins cited reports that Negroes in Selma, a west-central Alabama Black Belt community, had been discharged for signing a petition urging an end to segregation there.

Making public membership lists would, Wilkins said, make members subject to "private economic reprisals, to loss of their public and private employment, to harrassment by persons opposed to racial integration in the public schools, to threats of the use of force, intimidation and the use of actual force."

Wilkins cited two recent legislative acts designed to let school boards in Macon and Marengo counties fire teachers who advocate integration. He also referred indirectly to White Citizens' Councils dedicated to preserving segregation that are strong in Alabama.

The NAACP said it owns no real property in Alabama, a list of which Jones had ordered, but offered to surrender bank records, what it called a standard form for chartering branches, and correspondence concerning the attempt last winter of two Negro women to attend the University of Alabama.

This attempt and Montgomery's eight-month-old bus boycott were cited by Atty. Gen. John Patterson as NAACP attacks on Alabama segregation laws when he obtained the injunction. He also contended that the organization was doing business illegally in Alabama since it had not registered as an out-of-state corporation.

The NAACP denied both charges.

When the NAACP asked to have the injunction lifted, Patterson requested the records in an effort to sustain his contentions.

Wheeling Parking Lot To Be Dedicated

WHEELING, W.Va., July 30 (AP)—The new million-dollar parking lot Wheeling has built along its Ohio River front as a means of easing the downtown traffic problem will be dedicated Wednesday.

All-day ceremonies were outlined, to include a luncheon, water show, parade and fireworks.

Adj. Gen. Charles R. Fox is to represent Gov. Marland at the ceremonies and make a brief address.

The new parking facility is designed to accommodate 880 vehicles.

Death March River Free Of Any Pitfalls

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., July 30 (AP)—A Marine surveyor said today he found no hidden pitfalls, no deep water and only a sluggish current in the death march area of Ribbon Creek.

Warrant Officer Leslie E. Volle, his bright red hair undimmed by a close crop, testified S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon would have had to lead Platoon 71 far out into the creek to find water that gradually would rise above their heads.

Six young Marine recruits drowned in an April 8 march McKeon led into Ribbon Creek. He is undergoing court-martial for their deaths.

Prosecution testimony indicated McKeon, at the head of the column, never went more than 11 feet or so from the bank of the creek. At that distance, Volle said, the maximum depth of the water is only 2.3 feet.

Volle testified a five-foot depth of water is found some 20 to 48 feet out in the stream in that area.

"At any time, did you ever find any holes, cliffs, falloffs, spanish wells (concealed, mud-encrusted pits) or any other depressions out there?" Volle was asked by Col. Alaric W. Valentin, a defense lawyer.

"No, sir, we did not," replied the 27-year-old warrant officer from Chestnut, Ill., and Greensboro, N. C.

"Is there any place where a man walking directly out into midstream would take one step and go over his head?"

"No sir," Volle said.

"Two steps?"

"No, sir," was the reply. "He would go gradually under water."

Moreover, Volle told McKeon's court-martial, Ribbon Creek is more sluggish than the average stream and its maximum depth at high tide along its fringes is 5.3 feet "and probably less than that."

In cross-examination, Maj. Charles B. Sevier, the prosecutor, asked Volle about water depths:

"You're not considering any sinkage that might have occurred in mud?"

"That's right," the witness said.

Volle added a man might sink 8 to 12 inches in mud in certain sections of the creek bottom. This would mean the water would be that much deeper to him.

The death march took place two hours after high tide was reached April 8.

Several of the platoon members testified they found themselves abruptly in water over their heads on the march.

The prosecution accuses the 31-year-old McKeon of leading his platoon into tide-ripped waters over their heads, with the suggestion the boys who drowned may have floundered into hidden holes.

It is the defense contention that McKeon was leading a disciplinary march into a nonperilous area, but that the recruits broke formation and frolocked out of their depth through their own negligence.

Body Of Man, 74, Found In River

BALTIMORE, July 30 (AP) —The body of a 74-year-old man found floating face down at the Ferry Point Yacht Basin in Anne Arundle County yesterday was brought here today for an autopsy.

The victim, Charles Fetzner, had last been seen at 4 p.m., walking on a wharf to examine crab pots in Mill Creek. His body was found half an hour later and the Earleigh Heights Fire Department rescue squad tried unsuccessfully to revive him.

CAB To Probe Crowded Air Service At Washington

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board today ordered an investigation to determine whether the nation's capital is receiving adequate air service through Washington National Airport.

The CAB said its formal proceeding also would determine whether public convenience requires it to authorize airline service through Friendship Airport near Baltimore.

The CAB said it would be glad to entertain applications from airlines now serving Washington which would be willing to schedule flights into Friendship Airport.

The CAB said it would be willing also to discuss the entire problem informally with the 14 domestic scheduled airlines now authorized to serve Washington on 20 different routes. They are:

Alleghany, American, Braniff, Capital, Delta, Eastern, National, Northwest, Piedmont, TWA, United, American Air Export and Import, Riddle and Slick.

The administration has proposed building a second Washington area airport at Burke, Va., a project started and abandoned years ago under pressure from Maryland and Virginia senators.

A request for money to revive the proposal, however, was killed by the Senate in the closing hours of Congress.

According to some estimates, Washington National is rapidly reaching the point of traffic saturation.

Maryland's legislators have been pushing to get Friendship designated as a co-terminal with Washington — at least until a second Washington airport is built at Burke or elsewhere.

The airlines up until now, however, have not made any attempt to schedule Washington flights into Friendship. The distance has been cited as a factor. Friendship is some 25 miles from downtown Washington, and is 15 miles southwest of Baltimore.

In its announcement today, the CAB noted that traffic volume moving through Washington National has been increasing and is expected to increase still more.

It is concerned, the board said, as to whether the airlines can continue to serve Washington, adequately if the capacity of Washington National becomes overloaded.

Coleman Says Businessmen Must Look To World Scene

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., July 30 (AP)—The president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce tonight urged America's businessmen to look past their own industries and assume their rightful responsibilities toward world conditions.

John S. Coleman, in a speech prepared for delivery at a dinner meeting of the Jefferson County chamber, said business leaders "must accept responsibilities of leadership appropriate to their economic responsibilities. . ."

"I would not be frank with you if I did not say that in traveling through the country from time to time, one meets businessmen who are still living in a world that is past and gone.

"They look no farther than their own company. They have no guideposts save those of the past. They have won the first positions in industry; they cannot, however, see that these positions bring with them a world responsibility."

Coleman was speaking to his "home folks." He left his home in Charles Town after World War I to enter the business field. He now is president of the Burroughs Corp. of Detroit.

"The problems we now confront are indeed of international proportions," he added. "The struggle is world wide. There is a grim race for men's minds in Europe, Asia and Africa.

"Would anyone in his senses propose that we abandon one billion eight hundred million people to Communist domination? Some do just this. Some imply that this continent is sufficient unto itself and they would leave the rest of the human race to their fate.

"But the irrefutable fact is that no one can hide from an intercontinental missile and there would be little security for a continent threatened by the hostility of two-thirds of the human race."

Coleman suggested that businessmen take a more active part in the country's political and social life.

If we don't, he said, "we have no one but ourselves to blame if our views and experience are ignored. We cannot separate business and politics."

He said he was not encouraging them to become politicians. Instead, they should pursue a continuing program, with the first step being personal contact with their congressmen.

that public reaction to his campaign is becoming more favorable.

Telegrams jumped from 3-to-1 to 7-to-1 in his favor today, he reported, and letters have shifted from 2-to-1 in his favor to 2½-to-one.

"We are now entering a critical phase where the people are really beginning to think of the facts involved," he said. These facts, he went on, are that:

"We should seek a man for vice president with the same philosophy as the President and one with a noncontroversial record. He should also have the respect not only of Republicans but the independents, labor and the minorities."

Speech Is Canceled

Four weeks' leave will take Stassen through the Republican National Convention, which opens Aug. 20 in San Francisco. Stassen was to have made a speech in Salt Lake City next Saturday in his capacity as disarmament aide. This engagement has now been canceled, his office said today.

Eisenhower undoubtedly will be pressed for a statement on the Herter-Nixon situation when he holds a news conference Wednesday. Snyder announced the conference, the first since Eisenhower's June 9 abdominal operation, will take place at 10:30 a.m. EST.

Two Missing Girls Found After All-Night Ride

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 30 (AP)—City police reported today that two teen-age girls missing since Saturday from their trailer camp homes here have been located at the Childrens Center in New York.

Alexandria detectives said they would call the center to arrange transportation home for Judy Lindsey, 15, and Margaret Maines, 13. The girls had been seen last at a frozen custard stand near home.

Police said two men, charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors, admitted picking up the girls between 10 and 10:30 p.m. Saturday, driving with them until dawn and dropping them off a mile from the trailer camp.

The men are J. D. Meredith, 31, Woodstock, Va., and Kenneth I. Wines, 23, Berryville, Va.

Parents of the girls could give no explanation of their disappearance.

School Building Plans Delayed

TOWSON, Md., July 30 (AP)—Baltimore County school authorities say the recent four-week nationwide steel strike is going to throw a serious crimp into their building program.

But they don't think its full effects will be felt until the fall of 1957.

At that time, they estimated today, some 12,000 students may have to attend part-time classes or be quartered in emergency structures because of a strike-produced lag in the building program.

The school board says construction will be delayed on at least three schools previously scheduled to open in September, 1957. Five other county school projects due to be let for construction before the end of this year are also thought likely to be delayed by the steel order backlog.

School officials say the delay is coming at a time the county had begun making real progress to catch up with its growing pupil enrollments. The overflow was reduced from 10,000 to 7,000 last September and is expected to be further cut to 6,200 this fall. But after that another jump in enrollment will boost it up again.

It is 2,300 miles from Gibraltar to the Suez canal.

Strike Portents Hover Over Big Aluminum Plants

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Strike portents hovered today over another heavy industry—a big part of the nation's aluminum plants.

In the wake of a settlement reached in the month-long steel strike, a showdown for aluminum workers neared.

In Pittsburgh, the big Aluminum Co., of America said it is making "preliminary" preparations for an orderly shutdown if the strike comes.

Negotiators worked against a deadline tomorrow midnight.

With the United Steelworkers of America still ironing out details of the steel industry settlement, representatives of the same union were bargaining with aluminum companies.

Steelworkers President David J. McDonald himself today entered the aluminum talks, reportedly at the request of the industry.

Contracts with Alcoa and the Reynolds Aluminum Co., expire tomorrow midnight. The union has said it will not extend the present contract beyond the deadline.

This would mean a work stoppage, although a union spokesman said there's hope of an agreement before then.

The USW represents 18,000 workers in 12 Alcoa plants, and 10,000 at 9 Reynolds plants. Another 6,000 work for the Kaiser Aluminum Co., whose contracts don't expire until Aug. 31.

Details of the settlement of the steel dispute, which has kept 650,000 workers on strike since July 1, were still being put into final form in a meeting here.

The union said it has presented to the aluminum companies "substantially the same" demands as those made of the steel industry—including a unspecified wage hike and other benefits.

One reported difficulty was that the steel industry granted premium pay for Sunday work—but the aluminum workers already have been getting that and so want Saturday premium pay or extra insurance benefits.

Hungary Shifts Cabinet, Names New Minister

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 30 (AP)—Communist Hungary reshuffled its government today, naming a new foreign minister and making six other cabinet changes.

Then Premier Andras Hegedus took the floor in Parliament and promised improvement in the living standard of both city dwellers and peasants, and a reform of the legal code to remedy injustices of the Stalin era.

Hegedus addressed the first session of Parliament since the June 28 Polish workers' rebellion at Poznan, which shook all the Communist satellites. It was also his first speech after the ousting two weeks ago of Matyas Rakosi, Hungary's long-time dictator, as chief of the Communist party.

Both these events were obviously on Hegedus' mind during this two-hour speech although he never once mentioned Rakosi or Poznan. Rakosi is reported to have gone to Moscow to be out of the country while his successors try to effect reforms.

In a speech marked throughout by moderation, Hegedus declared:

"This time we are not going to demand too much or promise too much. We are not going to stretch our legs beyond the length of our carpet. That is the aim of our new five-year plan, that we do not attempt more than we can fulfill and not overextend our economy."

The Parliament session is expected to last a week and to be marked for the first time by some relatively free debate. It opened with the speaker announcing the Cabinet changes. The most important was the appointment of Imre Horvath, 50-year-old career diplomat, as foreign minister replacing Janos Boldoczky. Horvath is a former minister to Washington.

Other appointments were Gergely Szabo as minister of chemical industries replacing Arpad Kiss; Arpad Konya as minister of public education replacing Tibor Erdei-Gruz; Rezso Nyers as minister of food replacing Ivan Altomare.

Ernoe Geroe, who succeeded Rakosi as first secretary of the Communist party, resigned his deputy premiership. Two new deputy premiers were appointed. One is Georgy Marosan, a purged one-time Socialist who was recently rehabilitated and put back on the Central Committee of the Communist party. The other is Istvan Hidas, already a member of the Politburo and the party Central Committee. Geroe and Sandor Ronai, speaker of Parliament, were appointed members of the Presidential Council.

Police Seek Two Young Holdup Men

BALTIMORE, July 30 (AP) — A 3-state alarm went out today for two young bandits believed to have made their way from Virginia to Pennsylvania last night, holding up a filling station in each of those states and two in Maryland.

The young gunmen were described as wearing blue jeans and leather jackets. One wore a cowboy hat and walked with a limp. They drove a 2-tone sedan and were last reported headed toward Harrisburg, Pa.

State police said their crime spree started at 11:15 last night when they robbed an attendant of about $100 in cash on Route 15 in Virginia, about one mile south of the Maryland state line near Point of Rocks.

Tons Of Rotted Fish On Beach In Mexico Gulf

HOUSTON, Tex., July 30 (AP)—Tons of fish rotted on the Gulf of Mexico shore from Channelview to Baytown, Tex., today, and the odor forced many residents of luxury homes from their residences.

Work crews were attempting to bury the fish, and where that was not practical, were spraying them with a deodorant. The fish began floating in Friday.

An investigation to determine cause of the death of the fish is under way.

"Every man I had working was horribly sick," Health Department Commissioner V. V. Ramsey said. "I have never seen anything like it."

The commissioner said the fish—bull reds, drum and trout as well as smaller varieties—lined the shore.

"The fish were often stacked 18 inches deep," he said.

Marland Calls Special Session

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 30 (AP)—Gov. William C. Marland said today he would issue a call immediately for a special session of the Legislature, to meet Aug. 9 at noon.

Marland added that the call would include only two items:

Zoning the Green Bank-Arbovale area of Pocahontas County for the National Science Foundation's proposed radio astronomy center.

Appropriating funds for engineering equipment to replace what was lost at West Virginia University last month in a $1,470,000 fire which destroyed Mechanical Hall.

Senate President Ralph J. Bean and House Speaker W. E. Flannery both predicted that the session would not take very long.

"It's my sincerest hope," Bean remarked, "that we can finish up in one day."

NAACP Levy To Stand Judge Says

Group Refuses To Divulge Records

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 30 (AP)—A state judge refused today to modify or set aside a $100,000 fine against the NAACP.

The fine, levied by Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones Wednesday for contempt of court, goes into effect at midnight tonight.

NAACP lawyers asked the judge not to require them to fulfill his order to produce their Alabama membership lists with other records. The organization expressed fear of economic reprisals and the "use of actual force" if the 14,566 names of Alabama NAACP members were made public.

The attorneys offered to turn over to the court other records sought by Atty. Gen. John Patterson in connection with an injunction against the NAACP's doing business in Alabama. Last week, Jones found the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People in what he called "brazen contempt" of court for not yielding an extensive volume of records on Alabama operations.

Jones turned down flatly the request to withhold membership lists. That left $10,000 fine assessed Wednesday due to rise to $100,000 if the records were not in his court by midnight.

Attorneys presented a statement by the NAACP national secretary, Roy Wilkins, saying NAACP members have lost their jobs because they sought public school integration. Wilkins cited reports that Negroes in Selma, a west-central Alabama Black Belt community, had been discharged for signing a petition urging an end to segregation there.

Making public membership lists would, Wilkins said, make members subject to "private economic reprisals, to loss of their public and private employment, to harrassment by persons opposed to racial integration in the public schools, to threats of the use of force, intimidation and the use of actual force."

Wilkins cited two recent legislative acts designed to let school boards in Macon and Marengo counties fire teachers who advocate integration. He also referred indirectly to White Citizens' Councils dedicated to preserving segregation that are strong in Alabama.

The NAACP said it owns no real property in Alabama, a list of which Jones had ordered, but offered to surrender bank records, what it called a standard form for chartering branches, and correspondence concerning the attempt last winter of two Negro women to attend the University of Alabama.

This attempt and Montgomery's eight-month-old bus boycott were cited by Atty. Gen. John Patterson as NAACP attacks on Alabama segregation laws when he obtained the injunction. He also contended that the organization was doing business illegally in Alabama since it had not registered as an out-of-state corporation.

The NAACP denied both charges.

When the NAACP asked to have the injunction lifted, Patterson requested the records in an effort to sustain his contentions.

Wheeling Parking Lot To Be Dedicated

WHEELING, W.Va., July 30 (AP)—The new million-dollar parking lot Wheeling has built along its Ohio River front as a means of easing the downtown traffic problem will be dedicated Wednesday.

All-day ceremonies were outlined, to include a luncheon, water show, parade and fireworks.

Adj. Gen. Charles R. Fox is to represent Gov. Marland at the ceremonies and make a brief address.

The new parking facility is designed to accommodate 880 vehicles.

Death March River Free Of Any Pitfalls

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., July 30 (AP)—A Marine surveyor said today he found no hidden pitfalls, no deep water and only a sluggish current in the death march area of Ribbon Creek.

Warrant Officer Leslie E. Volle, his bright red hair undimmed by a close crop, testified S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon would have had to lead Platoon 71 far out into the creek to find water that gradually would rise above their heads.

Six young Marine recruits drowned in an April 8 march McKeon led into Ribbon Creek. He is undergoing court-martial for their deaths.

Prosecution testimony indicated McKeon, at the head of the column, never went more than 11 feet or so from the bank of the creek. At that distance, Volle said, the maximum depth of the water is only 2.3 feet.

Volle testified a five-foot depth of water is found some 20 to 48 feet out in the stream in that area.

"At any time, did you ever find any holes, cliffs, falloffs, spanish wells (concealed, mud-encrusted pits) or any other depressions out there?" Volle was asked by Col. Alaric W. Valentin, a defense lawyer.

"No, sir, we did not," replied the 27-year-old warrant officer from Chestnut, Ill., and Greensboro, N. C.

"Is there any place where a man walking directly out into midstream would take one step and go over his head?"

"No sir," Volle said.

"Two steps?"

"No, sir," was the reply. "He would go gradually under water."

Moreover, Volle told McKeon's court-martial, Ribbon Creek is more sluggish than the average stream and its maximum depth at high tide along its fringes is 5.3 feet "and probably less than that."

In cross-examination, Maj. Charles B. Sevier, the prosecutor, asked Volle about water depths:

"You're not considering any sinkage that might have occurred in mud?"

"That's right," the witness said.

Volle added a man might sink 8 to 12 inches in mud in certain sections of the creek bottom. This would mean the water would be that much deeper to him.

The death march took place two hours after high tide was reached April 8.

Several of the platoon members testified they found themselves abruptly in water over their heads on the march.

The prosecution accuses the 31-year-old McKeon of leading his platoon into tide-ripped waters over their heads, with the suggestion the boys who drowned may have floundered into hidden holes.

It is the defense contention that McKeon was leading a disciplinary march into a nonperilous area, but that the recruits broke formation and frolocked out of their depth through their own negligence.

Body Of Man, 74, Found In River

BALTIMORE, July 30 (AP) —The body of a 74-year-old man found floating face down at the Ferry Point Yacht Basin in Anne Arundle County yesterday was brought here today for an autopsy.

The victim, Charles Fetzner, had last been seen at 4 p.m., walking on a wharf to examine crab pots in Mill Creek. His body was found half an hour later and the Earleigh Heights Fire Department rescue squad tried unsuccessfully to revive him.

Coleman Says Businessmen Must Look To World Scene

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., July 30 (AP)—The president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce tonight urged America's businessmen to look past their own industries and assume their rightful responsibilities toward world conditions.

John S. Coleman, in a speech prepared for delivery at a dinner meeting of the Jefferson County chamber, said business leaders "must accept responsibilities of leadership appropriate to their economic responsibilities..."

"I would not be frank with you if I did not say that in traveling through the country from time to time, one meets businessmen who are still living in a world that is past and gone.

"They look no farther than their own company. They have no guideposts save those of the past. They have won the first positions in industry; they cannot, however, see that these positions bring with them a world responsibility."

Coleman was speaking to his "home folks." He left his home in Charles Town after World War I to enter the business field. He now is president of the Burroughs Corp. of Detroit.

"The problems we now confront are indeed of international proportions," he added. "The struggle is world wide. There is a grim race for men's minds in Europe, Asia and Africa.

"Would anyone in his senses propose that we abandon one billion eight hundred million people to Communist domination? Some do just this. Some imply that this continent is sufficient unto itself and they would leave the rest of the human race to their fate.

"But the irrefutable fact is that no one can hide from an intercontinental missile and there would be little security for a continent threatened by the hostility of two-thirds of the human race."

Coleman suggested that businessmen take a more active part in the country's political and social life.

If we don't, he said, "we have no one but ourselves to blame if our views and experience are ignored. We cannot separate business and politics."

He said he was not encouraging them to become politicians. Instead, they should pursue a continuing program, with the first step being personal contact with their congressmen.

that public reaction to his campaign is becoming more favorable.

Telegrams jumped from 3-to-1 to 7-to-1 in his favor today, he reported, and letters have shifted from 2-to-1 in his favor to 2½-to-one.

"We are now entering a critical phase where the people are really beginning to think of the facts involved," he said. These facts, he went on, are that:

"We should seek a man for vice president with the same philosophy as the President and one with a noncontroversial record. He should also have the respect not only of Republicans but the independents, labor and the minorities."

Two Missing Girls Found After All-Night Ride

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 30 (AP)—City police reported today that two teen-age girls missing since Saturday from their trailer camp homes here have been located at the Childrens Center in New York.

Alexandria detectives said they would call the center to arrange transportation home for Judy Lindsey, 15, and Margaret Maines, 13. The girls had been seen last at a frozen custard stand near home.

Police said two men, charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors, admitted picking up the girls between 10 and 10:30 p.m. Saturday, driving with them until dawn and dropping them off a mile from the trailer camp.

The men are J. D. Meredith, 31, Woodstock, Va., and Kenneth I. Wines, 23, Berryville, Va.

Parents of the girls could give no explanation of their disappearance.

School Building Plans Delayed

TOWSON, Md., July 30 (AP)—Baltimore County school authorities say the recent four-week nationwide steel strike is going to throw a serious crimp into their building program.

But they don't think its full effects will be felt until the fall of 1957.

At that time, they estimated today, some 12,000 students may have to attend part-time classes or be quartered in emergency structures because of a strike-produced lag in the building program.

The school board says construction will be delayed on at least three schools previously scheduled to open in September, 1957. Five other county school projects due to be let for construction before the end of this year are also thought likely to be delayed by the steel order backlog.

School officials say the delay is coming at a time the county had begun making real progress to catch up with its growing pupil enrollments. The overflow was reduced from 10,000 to 7,000 last September and is expected to be further cut to 6,200 this fall. But after that another jump in enrollment will boost it up again.

It is 2,300 miles from Gibraltar to the Suez canal.

Strike Portents Hover Over Big Aluminum Plants

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Strike portents hovered today over another heavy industry—a big part of the nation's aluminum plants.

In the wake of a settlement reached in the month-long steel strike, a showdown for aluminum workers neared.

In Pittsburgh, the big Aluminum Co., of America said it is making "preliminary" preparations for an orderly shutdown if the strike comes.

Negotiators worked against a deadline tomorrow midnight.

With the United Steelworkers of America still ironing out details of the steel industry settlement, representatives of the same union were bargaining with aluminum companies.

Steelworkers President David J. McDonald himself today entered the aluminum talks, reportedly at the request of the industry.

Contracts with Alcoa and the Reynolds Aluminum Co., expire tomorrow midnight. The union has said it will not extend the present contract beyond the deadline.

This would mean a work stoppage, although a union spokesman said there's hope of an agreement before then.

The USW represents 18,000 workers in 12 Alcoa plants, and 10,000 at 9 Reynolds plants. Another 6,000 work for the Kaiser Aluminum Co., whose contracts don't expire until Aug. 31.

Details of the settlement of the steel dispute, which has kept 650,000 workers on strike since July 1, were still being put into final form in a meeting here.

The union said it has presented to the aluminum companies "substantially the same" demands as those made of the steel industry—including a unspecified wage hike and other benefits.

One reported difficulty was that the steel industry granted premium pay for Sunday work—but the aluminum workers already have been getting that and so want Saturday premium pay or extra insurance benefits.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 30 (AP)—The official motto of the United States now is "In God We Trust."

Hungary Shifts Cabinet, Names New Minister

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 30 (AP)—Communist Hungary reshuffled its government today, naming a new foreign minister and making six other cabinet changes.

Then Premier Andras Hegedus took the floor in Parliament and promised improvement in the living standard of both city dwellers and peasants, and a reform of the legal code to remedy injustices of the Stalin era.

Hegedus addressed the first session of Parliament since the June 28 Polish workers' rebellion at Poznan, which shook all the Communist satellites. It was also his first speech after the ousting two weeks ago of Matyas Rakosi, Hungary's long-time dictator, as chief of the Communist party.

Both these events were obviously on Hegedus' mind during this two-hour speech although he never once mentioned Rakosi or Poznan. Rakosi is reported to have gone to Moscow to be out of the country while his successors try to effect reforms.

In a speech marked throughout by moderation, Hegedus declared:

"This time we are not going to demand too much or promise too much. We are not going to stretch our legs beyond the length of our carpet. That is the aim of our new five-year plan, that we do not attempt more than we can fulfill and not overextend our economy."

The Parliament session is expected to last a week and to be marked for the first time by some relatively free debate. It opened with the speaker announcing the Cabinet changes. The most important was the appointment of Imre Horvath, 50-year-old career diplomat, as foreign minister replacing Janos Boldoczky. Horvath is a former minister to Washington.

Other appointments were Gergely Szabo as minister of chemical industries replacing Arpad Kiss; Arpad Konya as minister of public education replacing Tibor Erdei-Gruz; Rezso Nyers as minister of food replacing Ivan Altomare.

Ernoe Geroe, who succeeded Rakosi as first secretary of the Communist party, resigned his deputy premiership. Two new deputy premiers were appointed. CAB To Probe Crowded Air Service At Washington

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board today ordered an investigation to determine whether the nation's capital is receiving adequate air service through Washington National Airport.

The CAB said its formal proceeding also would determine whether public convenience requires it to authorize airline service through Friendship Airport near Baltimore.

The CAB said it would be glad to entertain applications from airlines now serving Washington which would be willing to schedule flights into Friendship Airport.

The CAB said it would be willing also to discuss the entire problem informally with the 14 domestic scheduled airlines now authorized to serve Washington on 20 different routes. They are:

Alleghany, American, Braniff, Capital, Delta, Eastern, National, Northwest, Piedmont, TWA, United, American Air Export and Import, Riddle and Slick.

The administration has proposed building a second Washington area airport at Burke, Va., a project started and abandoned years ago under pressure from Maryland and Virginia senators.

A request for money to revive the proposal, however, was killed by the Senate in the closing hours of Congress.

According to some estimates, Washington National is rapidly reaching the point of traffic saturation.

Maryland's legislators have been pushing to get Friendship designated as a co-terminal with Washington — at least until a second Washington airport is built at Burke or elsewhere.

The airlines up until now, however, have not made any attempt to schedule Washington flights into Friendship. The distance has been cited as a factor. Friendship is some 25 miles from downtown Washington, and is 15 miles southwest of Baltimore.

In its announcement today, the CAB noted that traffic volume moving through Washington National has been increasing and is expected to increase still more.

It is concerned, the board said, as to whether the airlines can continue to serve Washington, adequately if the capacity of Washington National becomes overloaded.

Benefits Asked By City Police And Firemen

The Mayor and Council will meet with the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association Monday at 9 a. m. to discuss a six-point program asked by the latter in lieu of social security coverage.

Under current legislation, they are not eligible for the federal old age insurance program.

The meeting was asked by Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan, who submitted the program to the Mayor and Council.

The requests follow:

1. Seven additional days vacation a year in lieu of seven paid holidays granted to other city employes.

2. A comparable sum paid into the police and firemen's pension funds, to their accounts, to compensate for Social Security benefits which other city employes will receive.

3. Paid hospitalization and medical benefits.

4. In the event that an increase in pay be granted to any city employes, that police and firemen be considered for a like increase.

5. That any pay received for overtime work be based on number of days worked a month instead of a 30-day basis.

6. The Police Department requests that any increase made by the city into its pension fund be earmarked to provide for a widow's pension.

Six Are Hurt In Weekend Accidents

A number of traffic accidents occurred in the Cumberland tri-state area over the weekend.

The worst on Pennsylvania Route 326, one mile east of Bedford, resulted in five persons, four from one family, being admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

State Police at Bedford said the auto driven by Thomas Weaverly, 21, of RD 4, Bedford, was headed north on the road when it swerved off on the shoulder.

When the machine came back on the highway, Weaverly lost control of it, and hit the auto operated by William F. Lehman, 49, of Bedford, who was following two other cars while heading south.

Admitted to the hospital were Weaverly, with deep lacerations of both legs, laceration of his chin; Lehman, with injuries not listed by police; Mrs. Ruth L. Lehman, 44, laceration of the scalp, and legs, and fractured ribs; Linda Lehman, 11, abrasions of the scalp and face, and Anita Lehman, 13, abrasion of the hip and fractured left shoulder.

Police said a motor charge will be filed against Weaverly when he is released from the hospital.

Sacred Heart Hospital admitted Harold Judy, 20, son of Kile Judy, Upper Tract, W. Va., Sunday night. Attendants said he was riding his motorcycle and ran into the rear end of a car. After being given first aid, he was sent to the hospital for treatment of his injured right leg. His condition yesterday was reported "fair."

Local Soldier Confers With Top Military Brass

A local soldier who is making a career of the Army was one of 15 enlisted servicemen summoned to Washington over the weekend for a conference with congressmen and "top brass" of the Department of the Army.

The soldier, Master Sgt. Lawrence A. Trozzo, spearheaded the formation of a Senior Non-Commissioned Officer Advisory Council two years ago at Fort Lee and its accomplishments in that time have been so great that the Army has ordered similar councils set up throughout the service.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trozzo, Beall Street, Sgt. "Trip" Trozzo first suggested the formation of an NCO Advisory Council while stationed in Europe during occupation duty following World War II. The organization served to boost the morale and prestige of NCO's in his outfit and was also of great assistance to servicemen of lower rank.

He is married to the former Miss Anne Malloy and they reside in Colonial Heights, Va., near Fort Lee. Master Sgt. Trozzo is sergeant major of the Quartermaster School Regiment.

City To Check New Boiler For Heating Plant

Mayor Roy W. Eves has been authorized to employ competent engineering services to inspect and certify compliance with city ordinances in the installation of a new boiler at the downtown heating plant of Potomac Edison Company.

Fee for the engineering service is not to exceed $350, the order passed by the Mayor and Council yesterday states and cost will be assumed by Potomac Edison.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long proposed that similar action be taken in regards to the boiler at Memorial Hospital. He said people in that area are complaining.

Otherwise, the meeting was strictly routine.

Council accepted notice of the resignation of Conley C. Hammond as a pipeman in the Fire Department effective August 11. Hammond has been with the department six years, it was pointed out.

Payments authorized include: $326.11 to Harold J. Snyder of Keyser, for services as a consulting engineer in the PSC hearing on the proposed C&A Gas Company rate increase, matching the county's contribution of half toward Snyder's $652.22 total fee; $6,675 to Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer, as 17th payment for advisory supervision and inspection of the sewage treatment plant; and $3.51 to Thomas Shaw, Oldtown Road, for overpayment of taxes.

Accepted was the $2,338.17 bid of Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company for coverage of the city's fleet and equipment.

Council ordered checks issued to employes Wednesday for the last two weeks of the month.

A report on receipts and disbursements for the quarter ending June 30 was made by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson. Receipts were $996,742.02 and cash balances $981,665.34, making a total of $1,978,407.36. Disbursements amounted to $1,504,146.30, leaving a cash balance of $474,261.06.

Approved was a proclamation naming August as "Knights of Pythias Highway Courtesy Month."

The Allegany County Historical Society thanked council for its gift of $820.47 as the result of the bicentennial celebration and invited council to visit its home, 218 Washington Street.

Council acknowledged and filed 25 communications opposing the addition of fluorine to the city water supply.

Parking meter inspector Harry Whisner said receipts the week of July 22 were $689.70 compared to $703.15 the week of July 15, a decrease of $13.45.

"I'm so fed up I just want to get away from it all — but I don't have a thing to wear."

Teetering Shovel Attracts Attention

A teetering power shovel attracted more than the usual number of "sidewalk superintendents" to the flood-control dredging work in Wills Creek shortly before noon yesterday.

While the giant shovel sat precariously, its left side "listing" badly and water partially submerging its "deck," a caterpillar operator worked for more than an hour to throw up a quick earthen dam. This diverted the water and lowered the level on the right side of the creek just beyond the Baltimore Street bridge, thus enabling workers to get to the source of trouble.

Spectators lined the entire railing on the east side of the bridge to "Watch the "hole incident."

Youths Hide Loot In Cruiser

Two young burglars, who stashed part of their $125 loot in the rear of a police cruiser taking them to headquarters, will face Allegany County Juvenile Court action.

Lt. James E. Van yesterday reported that the case of the missing $125 was solved when the two lads, one 11 years of age and the other 9, admitted the burglary and took officers to the place they had buried the major portion of the loot.

Mrs. Margaret Mattes, of 300 Independence Street, reported to police at 1:30 p. m. Friday that her pocketbook that had the wallet containing $125, was missing from her home.

A search revealed the handbag beneath clothes in a basket in the basement of the Mattes residence.

Subsequent investigation resulted in police learning that two small boys were seen burying a wallet in a pile of gravel near the B&O Railroad.

Officer John Henry Stitcher was sent to the homes of the two boys named and returned them to headquarters in the cruiser.

The two lads finally confessed. They said they buried the wallet in the gravel pit after first removing the money, and then buried $105 of the money along the fence beside the Columbia Street School.

They said they spent four dollars and when they were asked where the missing $16 was, they replied: "In the car."

Sure enough, the $16 was found under the back seat of the police cruiser where the boys had stashed the evidence.

Benefits Asked By City Police And Firemen

The Mayor and Council will meet with the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association Monday at 9 a. m. to discuss a six-point program asked by the latter in lieu of social security coverage.

Under current legislation, they are not eligible for the federal old age insurance program.

The meeting was asked by Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan, who submitted the program to the Mayor and Council.

The requests follow:

1. Seven additional days vacation a year in lieu of seven paid holidays granted to other city employes.

2. A comparable sum paid into the police and firemen's pension funds, to their accounts, to compensate for Social Security benefits which other city employes will receive.

3. Paid hospitalization and medical benefits.

4. In the event that an increase in pay be granted to any city employes, that police and firemen be considered for a like increase.

5. That any pay received for overtime work be based on number of days worked a month instead of a 30-day basis.

6. The Police Department requests that any increase made by the city into its pension fund be earmarked to provide for a widow's pension.

Six Are Hurt In Weekend Accidents

A number of traffic accidents occurred in the Cumberland tri-state area over the weekend.

The worst on Pennsylvania Route 326, one mile east of Bedford, resulted in five persons, four from one family, being admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

State Police at Bedford said the auto driven by Thomas Weaverly, 21, of RD 4, Bedford, was headed north on the road when it swerved off on the shoulder.

When the machine came back on the highway, Weaverly lost control of it, and hit the auto operated by William F. Lehman, 49, of Bedford, who was following two other cars while heading south.

Admitted to the hospital were Weaverly, with deep lacerations of both legs, laceration of his chin; Lehman, with injuries not listed by police; Mrs. Ruth L. Lehman, 44, laceration of the scalp, and legs, and fractured ribs; Linda Lehman, 11, abrasions of the scalp and face, and Anita Lehman, 13, abrasion of the hip and fractured left shoulder.

Police said a motor charge will be filed against Weaverly when he is released from the hospital.

Sacred Heart Hospital admitted Harold Judy, 20, son of Kile Judy, Upper Tract, W. Va., Sunday night. Attendants said he was riding his motorcycle and ran into the rear end of a car. After being given first aid, he was sent to the hospital for treatment of his injured right leg. His condition yesterday was reported "fair."

•Changes Coming In Due Time

In due time, the sooner the better, Congress will get around to final action aimed at correcting apparent evils in the federal income tax system.

Judging by the steadily rising roar of protest, the storm is likely to get worse before it gets better.

It is freely admitted in many congressional offices and in some of the high brackets of Internal Revenue service that the present income tax setup is well saturated with innocent or intended evil on both sides — that of the taxpaying wage earner, salaried man and business operator, and those charged with the duty of collecting every penny due.

A former commissioner of internal revenue declared a few days ago that the federal system is not only evil but vicious. One of the chief objections expressed was that the income tax rules and regulations, as enforced now, deprive citizens of rights guaranteed by Article 4 of the Bill of Rights which states that citizens shall be secure against unreasonable search and seizure.

It is plain that the present complicated system for filing income returns and the method of auditing and collecting the tax—even to the point of examining savings accounts and gifts to churches and charities—are in need of considerable patchwork and possibly a complete overhauling.

Most of the income-earning citizens in this country are honest and they file honest income tax returns. If their returns, when filed, are questionable to the least degree the errors ought to be corrected right then. And the Internal Revenue forces should be as exacting in helping individuals to file acceptable returns as they are in causing possible embarrassment later on.

These Days

Trials Of Harold Stassen

All men in public life suffer from frustrations and disappointments. The concatenations of affairs, the course of events, the interplay of imponderables seem to dominate situations to the annoyance of those who have devoted their lives to what they regard as a public service.

Harold Stassen has the reputation of being an able administrator of a public office, which is not an ignorable item as there are not too many men of real managerial ability in public life. Although only 49 years of age, he has been governor of the State of Minnesota, president of the University of Pennsylvania, a permanent candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency of the United States, and during the Eisenhower administration, he has been in charge of the give-away program and is now the President's secretary of peace, in charge of disarmament.

There can be no question but that Stassen's career has been notable. But he is possessed of one character defect that places him in an awkward position vis-a-vis other Republicans. That is his obsession that he ought to be President of the United States.

Certainly, there can be no objection to any man aspiring to the presidency. All boys used to be told by doting parents that the greatness of America consisted in the right of any man to become president, no matter what a dope he might grow up to be. That was said to give the child self-confidence and to instill in him patriotic ideals. Many a mother who found herself big with child while abroad rushed back to the United States to give birth to her son on American soil, only to discover that she gave birth to a girl or that, if a son, he grew up to be a football player with no presidential ambitions at all. Life is full of surprises.

Harold Stassen, however, was different. Never for a moment did he lose the ambition to be president or the conviction that he was just the guy for the job. He has always had an attraction for youth, probably because he has always been so young-looking, so boyish, in appearance. When Stassen, in 1940, realized that he could not get the nomination for himself, he turned his youthful strength over to Willkie and gained some stature by his sacrifice, because the Eastern businessmen who were then in control of the Republican party, looked favorably upon Stassen.

However, Tom Dewey and Bob Taft arose to plague Stassen and to reduce his opportunities and when they had, exhausted each other, Dwight D. Eisenhower appeared on the scene and took over. Stassen became an Eisenhower man and was duly rewarded by being given Paul Hoffman's job as almoner of the United States, giving away its largesse to all nations with a free and generous hand that was so free and so generous that Congress voted him out of office.

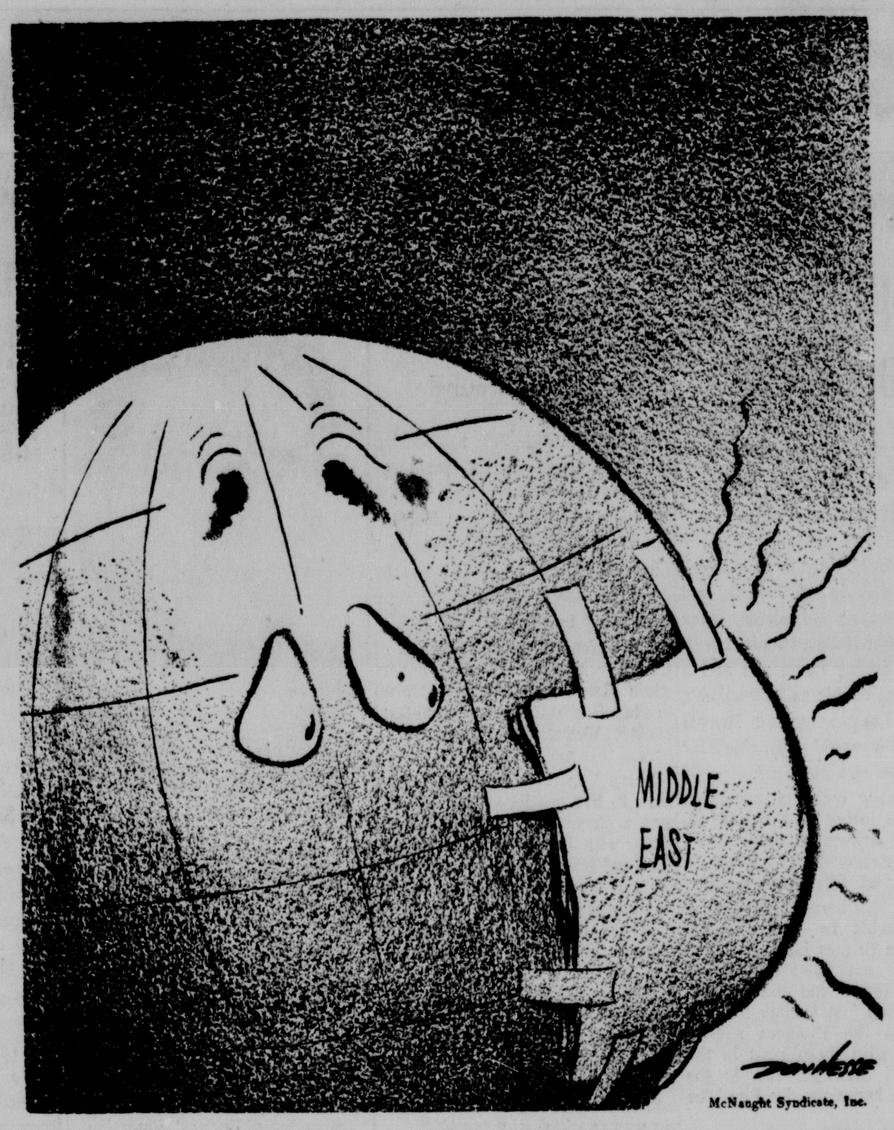

Eisenhower then took Stassen into the White House where he was made an assistant to the President, a secretary of peace, in charge of universal disarmament. As such negotiations are the especial province of the State Department, Stassen came into conflict not only with John Foster Dulles but with all the other persons in the White House who were dealing with foreign policy. Those who complained to President Eisenhower that Stassen treads heavily upon the toes of all others were told that Harold was a great liberal and that the Republicans needed a great liberal.

When the President became ill, some Republicans aspired to be vice president to replace Richard Nixon. Among these was Harold Stassen. There were so many aspirants and they all gave the impression of waltzing on Ike's grave even before he died that it was inevitable that the President would solve the problem by keeping the 1952 Ike and Dick ticket.

So Stassen organized his young Republican contingents in 16 states to put pressure on Eisenhower. He was duly warned that his activities were not pleasing to the President, whereupon he suggested the name of Christian Herter, knowing, as everybody in political life must know, that Herter cannot and, for his health, should not take the job. It was a smart way to start an argument in the hope that Stassen would get it as a compromise, but it was too smart and too palpable and too desperate.

Four-Bloc System Held Sway In Recent Congress

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — This was not a "do nothing" Congress. Nor was it a Congress that did a little about everything. It was a Congress in which what failed to be passed was as important an indicator of the real battle going on in America as the measures that did become law.

The real story centers on the four-way split in the political parties of today. It reflects a big tug-of-war between state socialism and the private enterprise system.

The pressure in the present Congress toward government ownership, government control, government subsidy and big-government domination of everything has been revealed as unremitting. Congress will be in adjournment only about five months, and the warfare will then be resumed.

Temporary Defeats, Victories

Meanwhile, all the defeats and all the victories are temporary. The advocates of public power who really want to wipe out private utilities in America by extending the TVA scheme to other regions of the country were halted but not beaten. They were balked in their effort to see atomic power for plant use put completely into government hands. They lost out on a public-power project known as Hell's Canyon on the Snake River in Idaho, but they found administration support for construction of public dams on the Upper Colorado River.

The administration's position is that government should do what private capital cannot and will not undertake. A Republican bloc considers this an opening wedge for socialism. Another bloc — mostly Democrats—is anxious to push government ownership on every side. They will not be happy till all food stores, all department stores, all retail stores, all steel plants, all factories are owned by the government. A minority bloc of Democrats is opposed. Most of the Democrats, however, are making the same steady drive toward nationalization of industries as the Socialist party has espoused in Britain, and which now is being repelled by the Conservatives in Parliament.

There are other major issues, of course, on which the division in the parties in Congress is not just between non-radical and radical but, for example, between those who differed on foreign aid. In the vote on the $4,100,000,000 appropriation bill in the Senate last week, 30 Democrats voted for it and 15 against it, while 30 Republicans voted for it and 15 against it. If it hadn't been for President Eisenhower's pressure on the Republicans who held the line for him, the measure would surely have been cut further. This was an acid test.

Democrat Bloc Held Balance

So it isn't accurate to blame these divisions on an alleged lack of "leadership" by the President. These are the familiar criticisms leveled at him in the propaganda of the Democratic National Committee and its allies. The truth is a bloc in the Democratic party has held the balance of power on many measures. Likewise, a bloc in the Democratic party has kept up a drumfire of criticism at Secretary Dulles as well as at the President. This partisan sabotage has been unduly publicized abroad and has encouraged there a defiance of some of the American government's policies.

A careful examination of the steady stream of speeches—some of them prepared at Democratic campaign headquarters — shows that the Democrats as a party have not made good on their pledge to the people to cooperate with the President on foreign policy, though a few like Senator George, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, did go along with the executive. In the House Appropriations Committee, the Democrats recently lined up solidly against acceptance of the Eisenhower administration's foreign aid proposals. The Republicans in the committee stood solidly by the President. Yet, in the months to come, much will be heard on the stump to the effect that a Democratic Congress has cooperated with the executive on foreign policy and that the Republicans have not.

So, looking back on the record of the Congress, the only satisfaction that can be derived is that it wasn't worse and that the non-radical forces did hold the radicals at bay on some important measures. The school-construction bill failure has to be charged to the radical bloc of the Democratic party and the Southern bloc who didn't want federal control of education. The agricultural program was adopted because the "soil bank" idea of the administration—a socialistic experiment—was too "popular" to be blocked by the Democrats. The Democrats succeeded, however, in pushing through the unsound expansion of the social security system over the protest of the administration. The "socialistic" features of the public-housing bill were successfully fought by a bloc of Democrats allied with a bloc of Republicans.

Remarkable Leadership

There can be no dispute about the remarkable type of leadership in Congress today—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Representative Joe Martin in the House, and William Knowland and Lyndon Johnson in the Senate. Senator Knowland, the Republican leader, is one of the outstanding personalities of this era in public life. He handled with finesse and good judgment the many complicated tasks entrusted to him by the White House. Senator Johnson was masterful in handling his side. The two Senate leaders worked together harmoniously, respecting each other's differences but operating the whole legislative program as efficiently as possible considering the handicap of the four-bloc party system with its temporary coalitions and alliances.

Five months hence the battle resumes. Even if one party controls both the Congress and the White House, the four-bloc system will remain. It's an ideological cleavage. It will not end till the forces seeking confiscation of incomes and property, as well as government mastery of the lives of all citizens, are decisively beaten in an election by the forces that really believe in the basic principles of the Constitution. This means respect for the functions of a federal government as defined in the 10th article of the bill of rights—namely, that all powers not specifically enumerated in the Constitution itself "are reserved to the people" and not to Congress or to the Supreme Court or to the Executive.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Thomas Edison said the greatest boon to mankind was the blade of grass. Which has nothing to do with politics but is sure to be mentioned before the convention is gaveled to the rostrum.

That's because the keynoter is spoon-feeding campaign pablum with a shovel.

Neither your keynoter nor your author of wall mottoes are under oath. When he starts his oratorical sun-fishing he lays it on thicker than tan bark at a hoss show.

Keynoting is not a steady job. Once every four years he straddles the Rockies, plunks the meridins like banjo strings, lights his pipe on the aurora borealis and dominates the works like a lion tamer in a pet shop.

In Chicago he must remember he's shilling for the reform ticket. And in San Francisco that he is not.

When it comes to gold-leafing the future he bows only to the head copy writer of a matrimonial agency. The convention opens with the national anthem and the keynote. Every deck has two jokers in it.

Water, Essential To Life, Can Be Mixed Blessing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Water is a mixed blessing. It is essential for health, even life, yet when polluted, is capable of wiping out an entire community.

Water also is a key resource of modern civilization. Our population has risen and so have our hygienic standards. There has been a fourfold increase in our water needs since the turn of the century and engineers estimate that our present requirements will double by 1975.

Water is used in air conditioning, automatic laundries, dish washers, and dryers. Industry has become a tremendous consumer; a large refinery, for example, may utilize as much water as a small town. Water also is needed for irrigation, and now that farm sprinkling systems are in vogue, the agricultural demands should multiply.

In this country we have 1,300 million acre-feet of water but use only 195 million acre-feet. In this respect, we have plenty but it is unevenly distributed. Los Angeles, for example, has 3 per cent of the population but only 0.04 per cent of the nation's precipitation and 0.0005 per cent of the stream-flow. Obviously, the city must import water to survive.

The role of medicine in this gigantic problem is small but important. The more we try to store our water, the greater the danger of contamination. In many sections, the supply employed for drinking, bathing, and cooking is the same as that used by industry, agriculture, and waste disposal facilities.

It is difficult to develop new sources although some plans are encouraging. Rainmakers usually make headlines with their cloud seeding but the yield from this method is low. Converting salt water into fresh can be done but is expensive. An enormous amount of water is stored in our lakes and rivers; there is said to be much more underground in the various strata of the earth.

Up to now we have been able to keep pace by increasing the number of reservoirs . . an annual rate of more than 16 million acre-feet. We also can spare our current supply by conserving what we have. This means prevention of contamination by salt water, city wastes, and industrial chemicals.

Many industries have found it profitable to recirculate the water used in their manufacturing processes. Treated sewage effluents and other contaminated waters can be utilized for various industrial and agricultural purposes. Water is not as great a problem in this country as in other parts of the world. We can be thankful that our authorities have kept it high on their priority list.

TOMORROW: Bedsore prevention.

BAD NEWS AND EATING

B. D. writes: Is it better to read a letter containing bad news before or after dinner?

REPLY

How can you tell beforehand what the letter contains? The results are the same, however. If it is read before dinner, appetite is affected; if put off until after dinner, indigestion may follow.

YEAST, A FUNGUS

F. H. writes: Is yeast infection considered a fungus disease?

REPLY

Yes, or, more properly, a mycotic disease. Blastomycosis and moniliosis are examples of disorders caused by yeastlike invasions.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Author Kyle Crichton was sleeping soundly one morning when the alarm clock suddenly started jangling. "What time is it?" he muttered. "I'm too tired to turn around and look," responded Mrs. Crichton. "You'll just have to get up and look for yourself."

Crichton, the wily old fox, simply said, "Darling, even at this hour you look beautiful" — and Mrs. C. told him promptly what the hour was. She also turned off the alarm.

"It never fails," chuckled Crichton, preparing to lapse back into slumber. "Flattery turns a woman's head!"

A wealthy textile man in Greenwich, Conn., proudly exhibits to callers a closet full of woolen cloth and bolts of silk, explaining, "Rich as she is, my wife insists on making all her own clothes."

Next he shows guests five live alligators in the patio. It seems she also makes her own handbags.

Ike Gave Stassen Full Green Light On Statement About Gov. Herter

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower may yield to pressure from the political harmony advisers around him, but when he first talked to Harold Stassen about Nixon, there was no doubt whatsoever that he knew expressly what Stassen was doing.

He gave the ex-governor of Minnesota permission to announce his anti-Nixon drive whenever he wanted to, made it clear he has never believed in preventing the Republican Convention from making up its own mind on his vice presidential running-mate, and told Stassen he had a perfect right to propose anyone he wished just as long as he spoke as an individual, not as a member of the "team."

Stassen was telling the absolute truth when he said that Eisenhower would be pleased to have Herter on the ticket. Ike thinks highly of Gov. Herter, also realizes Nixon will be a drag on the ticket. But the last thing Ike wanted to do was to take the lead in dumping Nixon. He knew it would infuriate the Taft Republicans.

Hagerty Fumes

The man who was sorest about Stassen's bombshell was press secretary Jim Hagerty. Jim, who is the most skillful public relations man ever to guide the publicity course of any president, had helped to plan the Panama trip to show the American public that Ike was well and vigorous.

However, Eisenhower himself spoiled this by confiding that he didn't have much strength, which of course took top headlines.

Then just as the President was homeward bound, Stassen dropped his "dump Dick" firecracker which took all the headlines away from Ike's Washington arrival. As he landed at Washington Airport, not one question came from newsmen about the Panama conference.

Hagerty was fit to be tied.

NOTE—Another dramatic move will be made shortly to reassure the public on the President's health.

Johnsonian Humor

Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, has by no means always agreed with Sen. Wayne Morse, the new Democrat from Oregon. But he showed tact, charm and humor in paying tribute to Morse at a big $50-a-plate luncheon held to raise money for the Oregon senator.

"I'd be willing to come to Oregon to campaign either for him or against him," said Johnson, "whichever would help him most.

"When Wayne was a Republican," Johnson continued with a sly grin, "he came to Texas to campaign against me. He reminded Texans that under the Constitution they were entitled to two representatives in the U. S. Senate, but had none.

" 'One of your senators, Price Daniel," Wayne told them, "represents the oil companies. The other senator, Lyndon Johnson,' Wayne said, 'represents only himself.' "

Johnson went on to pay a sincere tribute to Senator Morse and his importance to the Democratic party.

Ducks and Blinds

The question of duck-baiting and duck-shooting always makes the sparks fly in Congress, and the closing days of the 84th Congress were no exception. As the House of Representatives swung into a finish, GOP Congressmen Gross of Iowa and Pillion of New York made charges of malfeasance against Albert Day, former chief of the Fish and Wildlife Service, on the ground that he had participated in baiting duck blinds.

They were given a unique answer by Democratic Congressman Reuss of Wisconsin, who invited them to repeat their charges off the floor of Congress where they had no congressional immunity.

Said Reuss: "This matter can readily be disposed of within five minutes after the conclusion of our remarks by the gentleman from New York and the gentleman from Iowa accompanying me to the hallway opposite the speaker's office, where the privilege of congressional immunity no longer obtains, and in the presence of the press, which I shall be delighted to convene, let them repeat any charges of criminality on the part of Albert Day.

"That will show if they have the courage of their convictions. Then we can get a square judicial determination of whether Albert Day is indeed a lawbreaker."

After the session adjourned, Reuss stepped out to the hallway opposite the speaker's office and waited for his two Republican colleagues. Pillion and Gross did not show.

Russian Ambassador Barred

An interesting, unpublished incident occurred on the Adriatic isle of Brioni when Tito, President Nasser and Premier Nehru of India conferred there recently.

The Russian ambassador tried to crash the gate of the heavily guarded villa but was turned away. The ambassador, Nikolai Firyulin, made a special trip from Belgrade but was not allowed into the conference room even though he protested that he had a very urgent message for President Nasser.

When Tito was informed the ambassador had showed up, he was so irate he ordered him off the island; didn't even tell Nasser there was a message for him. The whole incident was kept very hush-hush. But the big question is: What message was so important that the Russian ambassador had to deliver it immediately? Western diplomats don't know the answer.

WASHINGTON

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal Company is being compared in knowledgeable circles here to the aggression in Korea in 1950, and even to the assassination at Sarajevo in 1914 which sparked the first World War.

Nasser's action may not be that serious. But it is serious enough, as British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's urgent invitation to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles suggests. At any rate, it is worth understanding just what is at stake.

The bulk of the oil which keeps the industry of Britain and Western Europe turning over passes through the Suez Canal. So does Europe's trade with Asia. The speech by Nasser in which he announced the canal seizure was extraordinarily bitter and irrational, filled with an infatuated sense of personal power. It reads in many ways like a speech by Adolf Hitler, with strong pro-Communist overtones. It is such a man, then, who will have a grip on the economic jugular vein of Britain and Europe, if Nasser is allowed to get away with his unilateral action.

America Has Stake

It is no wonder that some of the British are talking very tough — talking, indeed, in terms which recall the bad old imperialist days of Disreali and Palmersten, when the canal was born. But it is also well to understand the American stake in the matter.

American Middle Eastern oil also moves through the canal, and will henceforth do so, if Nasser has his way, only by courtesy of the Egytian strongman. But that is only a small part of the American stake. The biggest part is the British alliance. British prestige, influence and power have been shrinking steadily. If Egypt successfully defies Great Britain on a matter absolutely vital to British interests, then it is no exaggeration to say that Britain is through, once and for all, as a great power. The value of the Anglo-American alliance, which remains the heart and soul of Western strength, will then be sharply and disastrously downgraded.

What is more, what has now happened is a very direct result of American, not British, policy. It is no secret that Jefferson Caffrey, former American ambassador in Cairo, had a lot to do with installing the Nasser regime. Through Caffery, moreover, very heavy pressure was brought to bear on the British to evacuate the Canal Zone. And it was Secretary of State Dulles who took the lead in the Anglo-American decision to withdraw the offer to help finance the Aswan Dam— a decision which led directly to Nasser's act of defiance.

Triumphant Gamble

It has been said that Dulles' decision was a triumphant gamble, because Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov subsequently remarked that the Soviet Union was "not considering" helping to build the dam. The triumph may well be premature. After all, if two people arei nterested in a piece of property, and one withdraws, the other is very apt to assume an air of indifference. The Soviet objective has clearly been to make certain that Nasser, when he goes to Moscow next month, will arrive hat in hand and without real bargaining power.

The objective has been achieved, and the danger of a Soviet-Egyptian deal which will make the Soviet Union the master of the Middle East must be added to the dangers inherent in Nasser's seizure of the canal.

There are other dangers. The Israeli, for example, count Nasser their most formidable enemy. If Nasser now triumphantly defies the power of Britain and America, they will conclude that Israel is next on his list. The Israeli may then take "preventive action," or could spark a Middle Eastern or even a general war.

In this situation there are three alternative courses of action, all hideously unattractive. One is to waffle — to protest, to denounce, but to do nothing.

Another is to bring maximum economic and political pressure on Nasser. Egypt's sterling accounts have already been frozen, and other punitive economic measures can also be taken, like undercutting Egypt in the world cotton market. But this kind of economic arm-twisting has an unpleasant smell to the world, and it would leave Nasser nowhere to turn but to Moscow, which is precisely what Moscow wants.

Western Force Unlikely

A third alternative is to send the British Parachute and Royal Marine detachments to Cyprus to the Canal Zone, and back them up with the American Sixth Fleet. But the Egyptian army, such as it is, would almost surely resist and war would result. Much of the world would regard the Western powers as the real aggressors. And a small war with Egypt might lead on to ultimate horrors.

The British probably will not use force without Amreican backing. This is an election year. Thus the betting is about ten to one on a policy of waffling, and the grumbling acceptance of another major setback for the weakening West.

•Changes Coming In Due Time

In due time, the sooner the better, Congress will get around to final action aimed at correcting apparent evils in the federal income tax system.

Judging by the steadily rising roar of protest, the storm is likely to get worse before it gets better.

It is freely admitted in many congressional offices and in some of the high brackets of Internal Revenue service that the present income tax setup is well saturated with innocent or intended evil on both sides — that of the taxpaying wage earner, salaried man and business operator, and those charged with the duty of collecting every penny due.

A former commissioner of internal revenue declared a few days ago that the federal system is not only evil but vicious. One of the chief objections expressed was that the income tax rules and regulations, as enforced now, deprive citizens of rights guaranteed by Article 4 of the Bill of Rights which states that citizens shall be secure against unreasonable search and seizure.

It is plain that the present complicated system for filing income returns and the method of auditing and collecting the tax—even to the point of examining savings accounts and gifts to churches and charities—are in need of considerable patchwork and possibly a complete overhauling.

Most of the income-earning citizens in this country are honest and they file honest income tax returns. If their returns, when filed, are questionable to the least degree the errors ought to be corrected right then. And the Internal Revenue forces should be as exacting in helping individuals to file acceptable returns as they are in causing possible embarrassment later on.

These Days

Trials Of Harold Stassen

All men in public life suffer from frustrations and disappointments. The concatenations of affairs, the course of events, the interplay of imponderables seem to dominate situations to the annoyance of those who have devoted their lives to what they regard as a public service.

Harold Stassen has the reputation of being an able administrator of a public office, which is not an ignorable item as there are not too many men of real managerial ability in public life. Although only 49 years of age, he has been governor of the State of Minnesota, president of the University of Pennsylvania, a permanent candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency of the United States, and during the Eisenhower administration, he has been in charge of the give-away program and is now the President's secretary of peace, in charge of disarmament.

There can be no question but that Stassen's career has been notable. But he is possessed of one character defect that places him in an awkward position vis-a-vis other Republicans. That is his obsession that he ought to be President of the United States.

Certainly, there can be no objection to any man aspiring to the presidency. All boys used to be told by doting parents that the greatness of America consisted in the right of any man to become president, no matter what a dope he might grow up to be. That was said to give the child self-confidence and to instill in him patriotic ideals. Many a mother who found herself big with child while abroad rushed back to the United States to give birth to her son on American soil, only to discover that she gave birth to a girl or that, if a son, he grew up to be a football player with no presidential ambitions at all. Life is full of surprises.

Harold Stassen, however, was different. Never for a moment did he lose the ambition to be president or the conviction that he was just the guy for the job. He has always had an attraction for youth, probably because he has always been so young-looking, so boyish, in appearance. When Stassen, in 1940, realized that he could not get the nomination for himself, he turned his youthful strength over to Willkie and gained some stature by his sacrifice, because the Eastern businessmen who were then in control of the Republican party, looked favorably upon Stassen.

However, Tom Dewey and Bob Taft arose to plague Stassen and to reduce his opportunities and when they had exhausted each other, Dwight D. Eisenhower appeared on the scene and took over. Stassen became an Eisenhower man and was duly rewarded by being given Paul Hoffman's job as almoner of the United States, giving away its largesse to all nations with a free and generous hand that was so free and so generous that Congress voted him out of office.

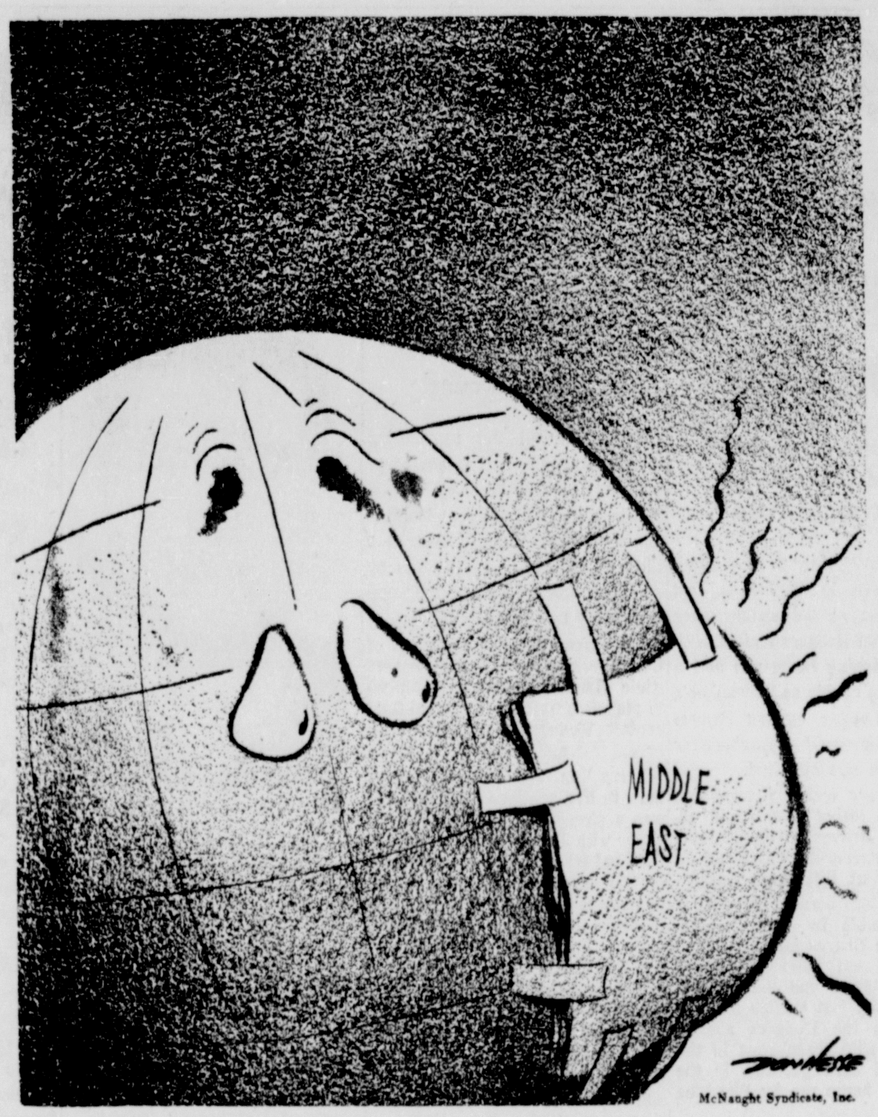

Eisenhower then took Stassen into the White House where he was made an assistant to the President, a secretary of peace, in charge of universal disarmament. As such negotiations are the especial province of the State Department, Stassen came into conflict not only with John Foster Dulles but with all the other persons in the White House who were dealing with foreign policy. Those who complained to President Eisenhower that Stassen treads heavily upon the toes of all others were told that Harold was a great liberal and that the Republicans needed a great liberal.

When the President became ill, some Republicans aspired to be vice president to replace Richard Nixon. Among these was Harold Stassen. There were so many aspirants and they all gave the impression of waltzing on Ike's grave even before he died that it was inevitable that the President would solve the problem by keeping the 1952 Ike and Dick ticket.

So Stassen organized his young Republican contingents in 16 states to put pressure on Eisenhower. He was duly warned that his activities were not pleasing to the President, whereupon he suggested the name of Christian Herter, knowing, as everybody in political life must know, that Herter cannot and, for his health, should not take the job. It was a smart way to start an argument in the hope that Stassen would get it as a compromise, but it was too smart and too palpable and too desperate.

Four-Bloc System Held Sway In Recent Congress

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — This was not a "do nothing" Congress. Nor was it a Congress that did a little about everything. It was a Congress in which what failed to be passed was as important an indicator of the real battle going on in America as the measures that did become law.

The real story centers on the four-way split in the political parties of today. It reflects a big tug-of-war between state socialism and the private enterprise system.

The pressure in the present Congress toward government ownership, government control, government subsidy and big-government domination of everything has been revealed as unremitting. Congress will be in adjournment only about five months, and the warfare will then be resumed.

Temporary Defeats, Victories

Meanwhile, all the defeats and all the victories are temporary. The advocates of public power who really want to wipe out private utilities in America by extending the TVA scheme to other regions of the country were halted but not beaten. They were balked in their effort to see atomic power for plant use put completely into government hands. They lost out on a public-power project known as Hell's Canyon on the Snake River in Idaho, but they found administration support for construction of public dams on the Upper Colorado River.

The administration's position is that government should do what private capital cannot and will not undertake. A Republican bloc considers this an opening wedge for socialism. Another bloc — mostly Democrats—is anxious to push government ownership on every side. They will not be happy till all food stores, all department stores, all retail stores, all steel plants, all factories are owned by the government. A minority bloc of Democrats is opposed. Most of the Democrats, however, are making the same steady drive toward nationalization of industries as the Socialist party has espoused in Britain, and which now is being repelled by the Conservatives in Parliament.

There are other major issues, of course, on which the division in the parties in Congress is not just between non-radical and radical but, for example, between those who differed on foreign aid. In the vote on the $4,100,000,000 appropriation bill in the Senate last week, 30 Democrats voted for it and 15 against it, while 30 Republicans voted for it and 15 against it. If it hadn't been for President Eisenhower's pressure on the Republicans who held the line for him, the measure would surely have been cut further. This was an acid test.

Democrat Bloc Held Balance

So it isn't accurate to blame these divisions on an alleged lack of "leadership" by the President. These are the familiar criticisms leveled at him in the propaganda of the Democratic National Committee and its allies. The truth is a bloc in the Democratic party has held the balance of power on many measures. Likewise, a bloc in the Democratic party has kept up a drumfire of criticism at Secretary Dulles as well as at the President. This partisan sabotage has been unduly publicized abroad and has encouraged there a defiance of some of the American government's policies.

A careful examination of the steady stream of speeches—some of them prepared at Democratic campaign headquarters — shows that the Democrats as a party have not made good on their pledge to the people to cooperate with the President on foreign policy, though a few like Senator George, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, did go along with the executive. In the House Appropriations Committee, the Democrats recently lined up solidly against acceptance of the Eisenhower administration's foreign aid proposals. The Republicans in the committee stood solidly by the President. Yet, in the months to come, much will be heard on the stump to the effect that a Democratic Congress has cooperated with the executive on foreign policy and that the Republicans have not.

So, looking back on the record of the Congress, the only satisfaction that can be derived is that it wasn't worse and that the nonradical forces did hold the radicals at bay on some important measures. The school-construction bill failure has to be charged to the radical bloc of the Democratic party and the Southern bloc who didn't want federal control of education. The agricultural program was adopted because the "soil bank" idea of the administration—a socialistic experiment—was too "popular" to be blocked by the Democrats. The Democrats succeeded, however, in pushing through the unsound expansion of the social security system over the protest of the administration. The "socialistic" features of the public-housing bill were successfully fought by a bloc of Democrats allied with a bloc of Republicans.

Remarkable Leadership

There can be no dispute about the remarkable type of leadership in Congress today—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Representative Joe Martin in the House, and William Knowland and Lyndon Johnson in the Senate. Senator Knowland, the Republican leader, is one of the outstanding personalities of this era in public life. He handled with finesse and good judgment the many complicated tasks entrusted to him by the White House. Senator Johnson was masterful in handling his side. The two Senate leaders worked together harmoniously, respecting each other's differences but operating the whole legislative program as efficiently as possible considering the handicap of the four-bloc party system with its temporary coalitions and alliances.

Five months hence the battle resumes. Even if one party controls both the Congress and the White House, the four-bloc system will remain. It's an ideological cleavage. It will not end till the forces seeking confiscation of incomes and property, as well as government mastery of the lives of all citizens, are decisively beaten in an election by the forces that really believe in the basic principles of the Constitution. This means respect for the functions of a federal government as defined in the 10th article of the bill of rights—namely, that all powers not specifically enumerated in the Constitution itself "are reserved to the people" and not to Congress or to the Supreme Court or to the Executive.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Thomas Edison said the greatest boon to mankind was the blade of grass. Which has nothing to do with politics but is sure to be mentioned before the convention is gaveled to the rostrum.

That's because the keynoter is spoon-feeding campaign pablum with a shovel.

Neither your keynoter nor your author of wall mottoes are under oath. When he starts his oratorical sun-fishing he lays it on thicker than tan bark at a hoss show.

Keynoting is not a steady job. Once every four years he straddles the Rockies, plunks the meridins like banjo strings, lights his pipe on the aurora borealis and dominates the works like a lion tamer in a pet shop.

In Chicago he must remember he's shilling for the reform ticket. And in San Francisco that he is not.

When it comes to gold-leafing the future he bows only to the head copy writer of a matrimonial agency. The convention opens with the national anthem and the keynote. Every deck has two jokers in it.

Water, Essential To Life, Can Be Mixed Blessing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Water is a mixed blessing. It is essential for health, even life, yet when polluted, is capable of wiping out an entire community.

Water also is a key resource of modern civilization. Our population has risen and so have our hygienic standards. There has been a fourfold increase in our water needs since the turn of the century and engineers estimate that our present requirements will double by 1975.

Water is used in air conditioning, automatic laundries, dish washers, and dryers. Industry has become a tremendous consumer; a large refinery, for example, may utilize as much water as a small town. Water also is needed for irrigation, and now that farm sprinkling systems are in vogue, the agricultural demands should multiply.

In this country we have 1,300 million acre-feet of water but use only 195 million acre-feet. In this respect, we have plenty but it is unevenly distributed. Los Angeles, for example, has 3 per cent of the population but only 0.04 per cent of the nation's precipitation and 0.0005 per cent of the stream-flow. Obviously, the city must import water to survive.

The role of medicine in this gigantic problem is small but important. The more we try to store our water, the greater the danger of contamination. In many sections, the supply employed for drinking, bathing, and cooking is the same as that used by industry, agriculture, and waste disposal facilities.

It is difficult to develop new sources although some plans are encouraging. Rainmakers usually make headlines with their cloud seeding but the yield from this method is low. Converting salt water into fresh can be done but is expensive. An enormous amount of water is stored in our lakes and rivers; there is said to be much more underground in the various strata of the earth.

Up to now we have been able to keep pace by increasing the number of reservoirs . . an annual rate of more than 16 million acre-feet. We also can spare our current supply by conserving what we have. This means prevention of contamination by salt water, city wastes, and industrial chemicals.

Many industries have found it profitable to recirculate the water used in their manufacturing processes. Treated sewage effluents and other contaminated waters can be utilized for various industrial and agricultural purposes. Water is not as great a problem in this country as in other parts of the world. We can be thankful that our authorities have kept it high on their priority list.

TOMORROW: Bedsore prevention.

BAD NEWS AND EATING

B. D. writes: Is it better to read a letter containing bad news before or after dinner?

REPLY

How can you tell beforehand what the letter contains? The results are the same, however. If it is read before dinner, appetite is affected; if put off until after dinner, indigestion may follow.

YEAST, A FUNGUS

F. H. writes: Is yeast infection considered a fungus disease?

REPLY

Yes, or, more properly, a mycotic disease. Blastomycosis and moniliosis are examples of disorders caused by yeastlike invasions.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

Author Kyle Crichton was sleeping soundly one morning when the alarm clock suddenly started jangling. "What time is it?" he muttered. "I'm too tired to turn around and look," responded Mrs. Crichton. "You'll just have to get up and look for yourself."

Crichton, the wily old fox, simply said, "Darling, even at this hour you look beautiful" — and Mrs. C. told him promptly what the hour was. She also turned off the alarm.

"It never fails," chuckled Crichton, preparing to lapse back into slumber. "Flattery turns a woman's head!"

Ike Gave Stassen Full Green Light On Statement About Gov. Herter

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower may yield to pressure from the political harmony advisers around him, but when he first talked to Harold Stassen about Nixon, there was no doubt whatsoever that he knew expressly what Stassen was doing.

He gave the ex-governor of Minnesota permission to announce his anti-Nixon drive whenever he wanted to, made it clear he has never believed in preventing the Republican Convention from making up its own mind on his vice presidential running-mate, and told Stassen he had a perfect right to propose anyone he wished just as long as he spoke as an individual, not as a member of the "team."

Stassen was telling the absolute truth when he said that Eisenhower would be pleased to have Herter on the ticket. Ike thinks highly of Gov. Herter, also realizes Nixon will be a drag on the ticket. But the last thing Ike wanted to do was to take the lead in dumping Nixon. He knew it would infuriate the Taft Republicans.

Hagerty Fumes

The man who was sorest about Stassen's bombshell was press secretary Jim Hagerty. Jim, who is the most skillful public relations man ever to guide the publicity course of any president, had helped to plan the Panama trip to show the American public that Ike was well and vigorous.

However, Eisenhower himself spoiled this by confiding that he didn't have much strength, which of course took top headlines.

Then just as the President was homeward bound, Stassen dropped his "dump Dick" firecracker which took all the headlines away from Ike's Washington arrival. As he landed at Washington Airport, not one question came from newsmen about the Panama conference.

Hagerty was fit to be tied.

NOTE—Another dramatic move will be made shortly to reassure the public on the President's health.

Johnsonian Humor

Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, has by no means always agreed with Sen. Wayne Morse, the new Democrat from Oregon. But he showed tact, charm and humor in paying tribute to Morse at a big $50-a-plate luncheon held to raise money for the Oregon senator.

"I'd be willing to come to Oregon to campaign either for him or against him," said Johnson, "whichever would help him most.

"When Wayne was a Republican," Johnson continued with a sly grin, "he came to Texas to campaign against me. He reminded Texans that under the Constitution they were entitled to two representatives in the U. S. Senate, but had none.

" 'One of your senators, Price Daniel," Wayne told them, "represents the oil companies. The other senator, Lyndon Johnson,' Wayne said, 'represents only himself.' "

Johnson went on to pay a sincere tribute to Senator Morse and his importance to the Democratic party.

Ducks and Blinds

The question of duck-baiting and duck-shooting always makes the sparks fly in Congress, and the closing days of the 84th Congress were no exception. As the House of Representatives swung into a finish, GOP Congressmen Gross of Iowa and Pillion of New York made charges of malfeasance against Albert Day, former chief of the Fish and Wildlife Service, on the ground that he had participated in baiting duck blinds.

"That will show if they have the courage of their convictions. Then we can get a square judicial determination of whether Albert Day is indeed a lawbreaker."

After the session adjourned, Reuss stepped out to the hallway opposite the speaker's office and waited for his two Republican colleagues. Pillion and Gross did not show.

CLEVELAND, July 30 (AP)—Mickey Mantle smashed two home runs, including his first grand slam of the season, as the New York Yankees defeated the Cleveland Indians 13-6 tonight. Whitey Ford allowed eight hits and struck out 10, but weakened in the ninth and needed help from Tom Morgan for the final out.

Mantle's two homers—his 33rd and 34th of the season—put him one game ahead of Babe Ruth's pace when he hit 60 in 1927.

His grand slam homer, the fifth of his career, came in the second inning off the Indians' veteran righthander, Bob Lemon. The Yanks scored seven runs in that inning, all unearned because of two errors by third baseman Al Rosen.

In the fifth, Mantle smashed another one over the right field fence off Bob Feller, scoring Billy Martin.

It was the sixth time this year Mantle has hit two homers in one game. They drove in six runs, his high for a single game this year.

Martin also homered in the third off Lemon, a drive to the left field fence that Al Smith leaped up and caught, but fell over the fence and dropped the ball.

The Indians' rookie rightfielder, Rocky Colavito, hit a two-run homer in the second inning off Ford. The veteran lefthander struck out the side in the sixth.

In the eighth, after the Indians had squeezed across a run on a walk and two singles, Ford struck out the final two batters with the bases loaded.

Ford, knocked out of the box in his two previous starts against the Indians this year, posted his 14th victory against four losses. Lemon, now 2-3 against the Yanks, was charged with his eighth loss against 13 wins.

Boone Bags Fourth As Dapper Phillies Trim Yankees, 6-3

Charley Boone registered his fourth straight pitching triumph yesterday as the Phillies defeated the Yankees by the score of 6-3 in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Little League at East Side Field.

Boone struck out 14 and gave up one pass in hurling the second place Phillies to their 10th victory in 13 starts. The Red Sox lead the race with a 9-2 record.

A five-run rally decided the game in the third frame after the Yankees had taken a 2-0 lead. Ray Redinger's homer after Boone and Shipway had singled produced the first three runs. Rich Smith's single and Vinnie DelaGrange's triple netted another tally and Charles Cannon's infield out sent over the fifth run of the inning.

Bobby Reed, Glen Shipway, Smith and Boone had two hits each for the winners. Ronnie Evans had a perfect day at bat for the Yankees with a two-bagger and two singles. Evans went the route on the rubber, fanned seven, hit one and issued one base on balls.

Battling for a berth in the playoffs, LaVale won both ends of a doubleheader from Corriganville yesterday and advanced within a half game of the fourth place Lonaconing team in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League. Manager Ted Femi's aggregation won by scores of 14-11 and 12-7 as Corriganville's losing streak was extended to 16 games.

LaVale has won 10 of 18 games with only three more games remaining on its regular schedule which draws to a close Monday.

The opener was a continuance of a recent 7 inning 11-11 tie and in the one inning played yesterday LaVale scored three runs to sew up the victory. John Trenton was the winner and Knieriem the loser.

Twenty hits were chalked up by the teams as LaVale bagged the nightcap. Dave Stone sparked the attack with a homer and two singles, McKenzie belted a round-tripper and single and Turleey blasted a triple. Keech paced the Corgs with a two-bagger and single.

Trenton received credit for both wins, giving him a season record of 5-3.

John Hinds Bags Fourth

Manager Dale Broadwater's Cresaptown Lions retained their two-game lead by downing Lonaconing by the score of 4-1 in a game in which each team obtained only four hits.

John Hinds got credit for the win, his fourth against no losses, while Brown was tagged with the loss.

Wes Broadwater rapped a pair of two-baggers for the Lions while Tim Doolan obtained two of 'Coney's four safeties.

Lowery Blanks Mt. Savage

Jack Lowery tossed a one-hitter, fanned eight and issued only two passes as Ellerslie cracked Mt. Savage's five-game winning streak to the tune of 4-0. The win was the fourth against a single loss for Lowery.

Ellerslie scored all of its runs in the second frame by coupling two hits with three walks, a passed ball and two sacrifice flies for four markers. Jack Lowery walked to launch the uprising. Steve Faulkner singled and both runnings advanced on a passed ball. Bingman's fly sent in the first run. Two walks loaded the hassocks and Roger Cook's sacrifice fly netted the second tally. Then Royce Waltman singled over the third and fourth tallies.

Mt. Savage loaded the bases in the second inning but failed to score when Lowery fanned two batsmen and forced the third to ground out.

Leroy Morris' single in the second frame was Mt. Savage's lone safety. Steve Faulkner collected three singles for Ellerslie.

Barton Edges Midland

Barton edged Midland on the latter's field by the score of 8-7. The winners were outhit 16 to 9.

George Lauder banged a pair of doubles, Pollock rapped a two-bagger and single and Berry had two one-base knocks for Barton. Phils Capture Pair, Advance To 5th Place

Roberts And Haddix Beat Cubs, 5-4, 4-2

PHILADELPHIA, July 30 (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, behind the effective pitching of southpaw Harvey Haddix and righthander Robin Roberts, swept past the Pittsburgh Pirates into fifth place tonight with a doubleheader victory over the Chicago Cubs at Connie Mack Stadium. Haddix won the second game 4-2 after Roberts took the opener 5-4.

Haddix earned his fifth straight victory and his ninth of the season against three defeats with a job that through seven innings bordered on the sensational. Solly Drake opened the game with a single and was erased stealing. Haddix retired the next 20 batters in order.

Ernie Banks broke the spell in the eighth with a single through the middle and then Walt Moryn bombed his 13th home run over the right field wall to account for Chicago's two runs.

Earlier, the Phillies gave Haddix a 4-0 edge with two in the first on a single by Marv Blaylock, Stan Lopata's double and a two base throwing error by Eddie Miksis. Elmer Valo's fifth home run in the fourth made it 3-0, while a walk, Lopata's single and an error by Banks accounted for the fourth run.

A walk with the bases loaded and a sacrifice fly accounted for two runs in the sixth inning to give the Phillies the first game.

Earlier, the Cubs had built up a 4-3 lead with the help of Ernie Bank's 24th and Walt Moryn's 12th home runs. Lopata cracked his 20th for the Phillies.

Braves Trim Dodgers, 8-6, Aaron Stars

Milwaukee Defeats World Champs For 7th Straight Time

BROOKLYN, July 30 (AP) — Hank Aaron drove in four runs and nailed down an 8-6 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight with a seventh-inning home run and a ninth-inning double as Milwaukee's National League leading Braves defeated the world champions for the seventh straight time.

The victory ended a two-game Milwaukee losing streak and retained the Braves' 2½-game margin over runner-up Cincinnati, a 4-2 winner at Pittsburgh tonight.

Aaron's 16th homer, following a leadoff double by Billy Bruton, pushed the Braves into a 7-1 lead in the seventh following homers by Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock, but it proved just enough for Milwaukee as the Dodgers shelled Bob Buhl with three runs in the eighth and then got two in the ninth on a home run by Pee Wee Reese.

Buhl, winning his 14th of the season, managed to knock off the Brooks for the sixth straight time this year with reliefer Ernie Johnson barely weathering the storm. Buhl, who has lost four, never has

Mantle Hits Two Homers As Yankees Trim Cleveland, 13-6

Lemon Victim Of Grand Slam Clout In 2nd

Mickey Ups Total To 34; Ford Whiffs Ten, Notches 14th

CLEVELAND, July 30 (AP)—Mickey Mantle smashed two home runs, including his first grand slam of the season, as the New York Yankees defeated the Cleveland Indians 13-6 tonight. Whitey Ford allowed eight hits and struck out 10, but weakened in the ninth and needed help from Tom Morgan for the final out.

Mantle's two homers—his 33rd and 34th of the season—put him one game ahead of Babe Ruth's pace when he hit 60 in 1927.

His grand slam homer, the fifth of his career, came in the second inning off the Indians' veteran righthander, Bob Lemon. The Yanks scored seven runs in that inning, all unearned because of two errors by third baseman Al Rosen.

In the fifth, Mantle smashed another one over the right field fence off Bob Feller, scoring Billy Martin.

It was the sixth time this year Mantle has hit two homers in one game. They drove in six runs, his high for a single game this year.

Martin also homered in the third off Lemon, a drive to the left field fence that Al Smith leaped up and caught, but fell over the fence and dropped the ball.

Twenty hits were chalked up by the teams as LaVale bagged the nightcap. Dave Stone sparked the attack with a homer and two singles, McKenzie belted a roundtripper and single and Turleey blasted a triple. Keech paced the Corgs with a two-bagger and single.

Trenton received credit for both wins, giving him a season record of 5-3.

Phils Capture Pair, Advance To 5th Place

Roberts And Haddix Beat Cubs, 5-4, 4-2

PHILADELPHIA, July 30 (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, behind the effective pitching of southpaw Harvey Haddix and righthander Robin Roberts, swept past the Pittsburgh Pirates into fifth place tonight with a doubleheader victory over the Chicago Cubs at Connie Mack Stadium. Haddix won the second game 4-2 after Roberts took the opener 5-4.

Haddix earned his fifth straight victory and his ninth of the season against three defeats with a job that through seven innings bordered on the sensational. Solly Drake opened the game with a single and was erased stealing. Haddix retired the next 20 batters in order.

Ernie Banks broke the spell in the eighth with a single through the middle and then Walt Moryn bombed his 13th home run over the right field wall to account for Chicago's two runs.

Earlier, the Phillies gave Haddix a 4-0 edge with two in the first on a single by Marv Blaylock, Stan Lopata's double and a two base throwing error by Eddie Miksis. Elmer Valo's fifth home run in the fourth made it 3-0, while a walk, Lopata's single and an error by Banks accounted for the fourth run.

A walk with the bases loaded and a sacrifice fly accounted for two runs in the sixth inning to give the Phillies the first game.

Earlier, the Cubs had built up a 4-3 lead with the help of Ernie Bank's 24th and Walt Moryn's 12th home runs. Lopata cracked his 20th for the Phillies.

Milwaukee Defeats World Champs For 7th Straight Time

BROOKLYN, July 30 (AP) — Hank Aaron drove in four runs and nailed down an 8-6 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight with a seventh-inning home run and a ninth-inning double as Milwaukee's National League leading Braves defeated the world champions for the seventh straight time.

The victory ended a two-game Milwaukee losing streak and retained the Braves' 2½-game margin over runner-up Cincinnati, a 4-2 winner at Pittsburgh tonight.

Aaron's 16th homer, following a leadoff double by Billy Bruton, pushed the Braves into a 7-1 lead in the seventh following homers by Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock, but it proved just enough for Milwaukee as the Dodgers shelled Bob Buhl with three runs in the eighth and then got two in the ninth on a home run by Pee Wee Reese.

Buhl, winning his 14th of the season, managed to knock off the Brooks for the sixth straight time this year with reliefer Ernie Johnson barely weathering the storm. Buhl, who has lost four, never has

Cumberland High School Gridders To Play 16 Home Games

LaSalle Opens With Bedford High Sept. 7

Teams Will Play Nine Games Away; 16 Of 25 Tilts Set For Friday

Cumberland high school football teams have scheduled 25 games for the 1956 season and 16 of the contests will be staged here on nine Friday and Six Saturday dates and Thanksgiving Day.

Fort Hill's Sentinels will play seven of their 10 games at home while LaSalle High's Explorers and Allegany's Campers will be seen in action six times each under the lights at the local stadium.

LaSalle Gets Frst Date

To LaSalle, which won three, lost six and tied one last season, goes the honor of being the first local eleven to open the season at the stadium. Bedford High's Bisons will provide the opposition on the night of Friday, September 7. Fort Hill has appeared in the majority of home openers in recent years. In 1953 LaSalle and Fort Hill kicked off the lid in a 7-0 battle in which the Sentinels were returned the victors.

Fort Hill, victorious in nine out of ten games last season, plays its initial home game with Northwestern High of Prince Georges county on Saturday, Sept. 8 while Allegany makes its home debut on Saturday, September 15 with Beall High. The Campers, who will have a new head coach this year in the person of Chester Payne, formerly of Ridgeley High and a new assistant coach in Paul J. Cuba, one-time Pitt and National Football League player, won seven and lost one last year under Roy Lester.

William P. Hahn will be at the helm at Fort Hill High School for the 12th year of his 19-year coaching career. Norman F. Geatz, Jr., has served as LaSalle High mentor for the past 4½ seasons.

Two New Schools Listed

Only two new schools appear on the schedules of the three local schools this season. Highland Hall of Hollidaysburg, Pa., appears on the LaSalle slate while Frederick will meet both Allegany and Fort Hill.

Handley, Martinsburg, Hagerstown, Frederick, Fort Hill and Allegany will make up the revived Cumberland Valley Athletic League this year.

Of the 25 contests listed for the three schools 16 will be played on Friday, seven on Saturday and two on Thanksgiving Day.

Nashua May Skip Race

Assigned 132 Pounds For Jamaica Feature

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Handicapper Frank Kilroe threw down the gauntlet to the Nashua camp today, assigning racing's "moneybags" 132 pounds for Saturday's $50,000-added Brooklyn Handicap at Jamaica, and there was considerable doubt that it would be picked up.

There was no immediate announcement from Leslie Combs II, head of the syndicate that bought Nashua last winter. Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, trainer of the millionaire horse, said only that he would do as he was told.

But the general impression was that Nashua would pick up his bank deposits and head for Atlantic City, where he has been assigned a more tidy 129 pounds, same as in his last romping victory, for the $100,000-added Atlantic City Handicap on Aug. 11.

Combs said several weeks ago that his star four-year-old probably would not be permitted to run in any race in which he had to carry more than 130 pounds.

In his money-winning career, Nashua has carried as much as 130 pounds once. He had 130 aboard when he ran seventh in the Carter Handicap, a seven-furlong sprint, at Belmont Park last month.

Pennsylvania Trout Season Is Extended, Will Close Sept. 15

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 30 (AP)—Pennsylvania's fish commission today extended the July 31 closing of the trout season to Sept. 15.

The extension — first of its kind in the commission's history—was the result of reports of poor fishing conditions since the season opened April 15.

The fewer fish caught, the larger the carryover into the next season, Smith said.

He reported that the trout carryover normally is exceptionally low, adding:

"The commission decided that rather than have the uncaught fish go to waste, the season should be extended."

Detroit Shakes Sullivan Jinx, Tops Bosox, 4-1

Trucks Is Victor, Vernon Hits Homer

DETROIT, July 30 (AP) — Virgil Trucks threw a three-hitter at the Boston Red Sox today and the Detroit Tigers whipped Frank Sullivan for the first time in more than two seasons, 4-1.

The 37-year-old Trucks, who had pitched only two complete games this season, had to battle wildness in the early and late stages but the only run he permitted was Mickey Vernon's 11th home run.

Sullivan had defeated the Tigers 11 times in succession and possessed an 11-2 lifetime mark against them.

But today Sullivan was around for only four and 2-3 innings. He was roughed up for ten hits and all three Tiger runs before Tommy Hurd and Leo Kiely took over the Boston pitching chores.

Trucks gave up Vernon's leadoff homer in the second, an infield single to Billy Klaus in the fifth, and a two-out single to Don Buddin in the ninth.

Detroit tied the score with a run in the fourth on consecutive singles by Frank House, Jim Small and Frank Bolling. House and Small, each with three singles for the afternoon, had a part in a two-run Tiger uprising that drove out Sullivan in the fifth.

After two batters walked, House and Small cracked two-out singles to drive in the deciding runs. Detroit added another run in the eighth on a single, two walks by Kiely and a sacrifice fly.

DALE MITCHELL

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 30—(INS)—The other day we recalled some yarns about the most vitriolic of baseball jockeys, "Oil" Smith, rugged catcher for the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates.

We told of Smitty riding all the hitters, squirting tobacco juice on their feet, and how Judge Landis fined him $200 for some purple language that reached the stands in the 1925 World Series between the Pirates and Washington.

Bucky Harris was then the second baseman and wonder boy manager of the Senators. The first time Bucky stepped up to hit, Smitty remarked:

"I'd like to see the Washington manager."

"Well, here I am," said Bucky.

"You!" snorted Smitty, "Why you're just a messenger boy for Clark Griffith."

Gus Felix was an outfielder for the Braves in those days, a good-natured six-footer plus, who weighed about 210. He stood Smitty's abuse for a long time. Then one day he blew his top and decided on revenge.

Gus got around to third base on one occasion and the hitter hit a pop fly to short. Gus knew he'd be a dead duck if he tried to score. But he didn't care; he wanted a shot at Smitty. He was out by 40 feet, but he came tearing in anyhow in a long slide with spikes high.

The spikes tore Smitty's chest protector to ribbons and bowled him over. But in a second he was on top of Gus and poundinng him with great vigor.

Smitty was incensed when John McGraw traded him to the Pirates, but he made no squawk.

We were traveling with the Giants the next year, and on our first trip into Pittsburgh there was Smitty catching for the Pirates.

Early in the game one of the Giants hit a foul and Smitty raced over toward the Giant dugout, in front of which a row of bats was lined up.

Smitty landed on the bats but made a sensational catch of the foul.

Looking down into the dugout he spied the ever-pugnacious McGraw, sitting over in a corner.

McGraw was resplendent in a straw hat, white silk shirt, fancy tie, blue jacket with big pearl buttons, cream trousers and two-toned shoes.

"So you traded me, you shanty so-and-so," yelled Smitty, "Well, what do you think of that one?"

And he squirted a stream of tobacco juice all over McGraw's fancy togs.

Mele Is Restored To Tribe's Roster

CLEVELAND, July 30 (INS)—Veteran outfielder Sam Mele, on whom waivers had been asked last week, was restored to the Cleveland Indians' roster tonight after the Redskins peddled Dale Mitchell to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

None of the 15 other major league clubs claimed Mele when he was placed on waivers last week and he and the Indians mutually agreed to the continuation of his services in which case the waivers sought for the purpose of his unconditional realease automatically expired.

The Indians had released Mele to make room for rookie outfielder Rocky Colavito, who was recalled from San Diego last week.

The bronze statue of Freedom surmounting the Capitol in Washington was erected in 1863.

Brooklyn Buys Dale Mitchell From Indians

Sell Rocky Nelson To St. Louis Cards

NEW YORK, July 30 (INS) — Brooklyn's improving Dodgers, in a move to bolster their National League pennant chances, today purchased outfielder Dale Mitchell from the Cleveland Indians.

To make room for Mitchell, the second-place Dodgers sold utility first baseman Glenn "Rocky" Nelson to the St. Louis Cardinals for the waiver price of $10,000.

Mitchell, a 34-year-old major league veteran, owns a .314 lifetime batting mark.

The Dodgers will also send a minor leaguep layer, to be named later, to the Indians to complete the deal.

Brooklyn is currently in third place in the senior circuit.

Nelson formerly was with the Cardinals, the Pirates, White Sox, and Indians. Last year he was voted them ost valuable player in the International League. But he failed to hit major league pitching, posting a .211 average in 31 games this season.

Cumberland High School Gridders To Play 16 Home Games

LaSalle Opens With Bedford High Sept. 7

Teams Will Play Nine Games Away; 16 Of 25 Tilts Set For Friday

Cumberland high school football teams have scheduled 25 games for the 1956 season and 16 of the contests will be staged here on nine Friday and Six Saturday dates and Thanksgiving Day.

Fort Hill's Sentinels will play seven of their 10 games at home while LaSalle High's Explorers and Allegany's Campers will be seen in action six times each under the lights at the local stadium.

LaSalle Gets Frst Date

To LaSalle, which won three, lost six and tied one last season, goes the honor of being the first local eleven to open the season at the stadium. Bedford High's Bisons will provide the opposition on the night of Friday, September 7. Fort Hill has appeared in the majority of home openers in recent years. In 1953 LaSalle and Fort Hill kicked off the lid in a 7-0 battle in which the Sentinels were returned the victors.

Fort Hill, victorious in nine out of ten games last season, plays its initial home game with Northwestern High of Prince Georges county on Saturday, Sept. 8 while Allegany makes its home debut on Saturday, September 15 with Beall High. The Campers, who will have a new head coach this year in the person of Chester Payne, formerly of Ridgeley High and a new assistant coach in Paul J. Cuba, one-time Pitt and National Football League player, won seven and lost one last year under Roy Lester.

William P. Hahn will be at the helm at Fort Hill High School for the 12th year of his 19-year coaching career. Norman F. Geatz, Jr., has served as LaSalle High mentor for the past 4½ seasons.

Two New Schools Listed

Only two new schools appear on the schedules of the three local schools this season. Highland Hall of Hollidaysburg, Pa., appears on the LaSalle slate while Frederick will meet both Allegany and Fort Hill.

Handley, Martinsburg, Hagerstown, Frederick, Fort Hill and Allegany will make up the revived Cumberland Valley Athletic League this year.

Of the 25 contests listed for the three schools 16 will be played on Friday, seven on Saturday and two on Thanksgiving Day.

Nashua May Skip Race

Assigned 132 Pounds For Jamaica Feature

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Handicapper Frank Kilroe threw down the gauntlet to the Nashua camp today, assigning racing's "moneybags" 132 pounds for Saturday's $50,000-added Brooklyn Handicap at Jamaica, and there was considerable doubt that it would be picked up.

There was no immediate announcement from Leslie Combs II, head of the syndicate that bought Nashua last winter. Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, trainer of the millionaire horse, said only that he would do as he was told.

But the general impression was that Nashua would pick up his bank deposits and head for Atlantic City, where he has been assigned a more tidy 129 pounds, same as in his last romping victory, for the $100,000-added Atlantic City Handicap on Aug. 11.

Combs said several weeks ago that his star four-year-old probably would not be permitted to run in any race in which he had to carry more than 130 pounds.

In his money-winning career, Nashua has carried as much as 130 pounds once. He had 130 aboard when he ran seventh in the Carter Handicap, a seven-furlong sprint, at Belmont Park last month.

Pennsylvania Trout Season Is Extended, Will Close Sept. 15

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 30 (AP)—Pennsylvania's fish commission today extended the July 31 closing of the trout season to Sept. 15.

The extension — first of its kind in the commission's history—was the result of reports of poor fishing conditions since the season opened April 15.

The fewer fish caught, the larger the carryover into the next season, Smith said.

He reported that the trout carryover normally is exceptionally low, adding:

"The commission decided that rather than have the uncaught fish go to waste, the season should be extended."

Trucks Is Victor, Vernon Hits Homer

DETROIT, July 30 (AP) — Virgil Trucks threw a three-hitter at the Boston Red Sox today and the Detroit Tigers whipped Frank Sullivan for the first time in more than two seasons, 4-1.

The 37-year-old Trucks, who had pitched only two complete games this season, had to battle wildness in the early and late stages but the only run he permitted was Mickey Vernon's 11th home run.

Sullivan had defeated the Tigers 11 times in succession and possessed an 11-2 lifetime mark against them.

But today Sullivan was around for only four and 2-3 innings. He was roughed up for ten hits and all three Tiger runs before Tommy Hurd and Leo Kiely took over the Boston pitching chores.

Trucks gave up Vernon's leadoff homer in the second, an infield single to Billy Klaus in the fifth, and a two-out single to Don Buddin in the ninth.

Detroit tied the score with a run in the fourth on consecutive singles by Frank House, Jim Small and Frank Bolling. House and Small, each with three singles for the afternoon, had a part in a two-run Tiger uprising that drove out Sullivan in the fifth.

After two batters walked, House and Small cracked two-out singles to drive in the deciding runs. Detroit added another run in the eighth on a single, two walks by Kiely and a sacrifice fly.

DALE MITCHELL

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 30—(INS)—The other day we recalled some yarns about the most vitriolic of baseball jockeys, "Oil" Smith, rugged catcher for the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates.

We told of Smitty riding all the hitters, squirting tobacco juice on their feet, and how Judge Landis fined him $200 for some purple language that reached the stands in the 1925 World Series between the Pirates and Washington.

Bucky Harris was then the second baseman and wonder boy manager of the Senators. The first time Bucky stepped up to hit, Smitty remarked:

"I'd like to see the Washington manager."

"Well, here I am," said Bucky.

Gus Felix was an outfielder for the Braves in those days, a good-natured six-footer plus, who weighed about 210. He stood Smitty's abuse for a long time. Then one day he blew his top and decided on revenge.

Gus got around to third base on one occasion and the hitter hit a pop fly to short. Gus knew he'd be a dead duck if he tried to score. But he didn't care; he wanted a shot at Smitty. He was out by 40 feet, but he came tearing in anyhow in a long slide with spikes high.

The spikes tore Smitty's chest protector to ribbons and bowled him over. But in a second he was on top of Gus and poundinng him with great vigor.

Smitty was incensed when John McGraw traded him to the Pirates, but he made no squawk.

We were traveling with the Giants the next year, and on our first trip into Pittsburgh there was Smitty catching for the Pirates.

Smitty landed on the bats but made a sensational catch of the foul.

McGraw was resplendent in a straw hat, white silk shirt, fancy tie, blue jacket with big pearl buttons, cream trousers and two-toned shoes.

"So you traded me, you shanty so-and-so," yelled Smitty, "Well, what do you think of that one?"

Mele Is Restored To Tribe's Roster

CLEVELAND, July 30 (INS)—Veteran outfielder Sam Mele, on whom waivers had been asked last week, was restored to the Cleveland Indians' roster tonight after the Redskins peddled Dale Mitchell to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

None of the 15 other major league clubs claimed Mele when he was placed on waivers last week and he and the Indians mutually agreed to the continuation of his services in which case the waivers sought for the purpose of his unconditional realease automatically expired.

The Indians had released Mele to make room for rookie outfielder Rocky Colavito, who was recalled from San Diego last week.

Sell Rocky Nelson To St. Louis Cards

NEW YORK, July 30 (INS) — Brooklyn's improving Dodgers, in a move to bolster their National League pennant chances, today purchased outfielder Dale Mitchell from the Cleveland Indians.

To make room for Mitchell, the second-place Dodgers sold utility first baseman Glenn "Rocky" Nelson to the St. Louis Cardinals for the waiver price of $10,000.

Mitchell, a 34-year-old major league veteran, owns a .314 lifetime batting mark.

The Dodgers will also send a minor leaguep layer, to be named later, to the Indians to complete the deal.

Brooklyn is currently in third place in the senior circuit.

Nelson formerly was with the Cardinals, the Pirates, White Sox, and Indians. Last year he was voted them ost valuable player in the International League. But he failed to hit major league pitching, posting a .211 average in 31 games this season.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 30—(INS)—After reading enough scripts, stories and plays to mak him woozey, Hal Wallis has at last bought the yarn that brings Elvis Presley to the screen, "The Lonesome Cowboy," Margaret Agnes Thompson's Good Housekeeping Magazine yarn.

With this momentous news for the rock 'n' roll addicts of the Presley cult settled, it can be added that Elvis is due in Hollywood for conferences with Wallis on August 1. It's about a country boy singer whose records become the rage and he falls into the hands of sharpies, a vaguely familiar theme. Herbert Baker will write the script.

This is the first movie news about Lilli in a long time. While her estranged mate Rex Harrison has been wowing them in "My Fair Lady" on Broadway, Lilli has been appearing on the stage in Europe.

The picture with Carlos is about a woman married to a wealthy man who, believing she's dying, has an affair she regrets. The locations are Munich and Majorca. Carlos played Franz Lizst in "Magic Fire" made in Europe last year, and he's due for a break that will make Hollywood producers take notice.

Jerome Cappi, whose "The Immortal City," filmed entirely within the Vatican, will be released worldwide this fall, has paved the way for another big coup — filming the life stories of Michelangelo, Venvenuto Cellini, Raphael, Titian and other great masters for theatre, screen and TV.

With John Farrow, Aldous Huxley and Grahame Greene being negotiated to author the screen plays (Farrow to direct three of the classics as well) this is really an artistic triumph. The Italian government as well as the Vatican had to give permission for this project. William Hebert, just returned from conferences with Cappi in Rome, will represent the American end of the deal.

Frank Sinatra is fast becoming the "Biography Kid." Joe Pasternak's life story (and good, too) "Easy The Hard Way" has been sent to Frank in Spain, Sinatra being Joe's own choice to portray him on the screen. Nicholas Brodsky and Sammy Cahn have already written a theme song of the title which was also sent to Sinatra.

Point is, when is he going to get time to make it. First up, he has the Joe E. Lewis book, "Joker Is Wild" at Paramount. Then "Pal Joey" with Kim Novak at Columbia. Plus another for his independent company and on and on and on.

Hollywood in shorts: Pier Angeli arrived in New York over the weekend with a sprained wrist from moving furniture. She'll spend a week with Vic Damone before planing to Paris for "The Vintage."

Rock Hudson is the very relaxed possessor of the only king sized bed in all Africa. The management of the Stanley Hotel in Nairobi had it made up for the six foot star and now it's of more value than his "Something Of Value."

Lots of fun planned for the first chuck wagon preview which will be held in the lobby of a Valley theatre in connection with the showing of 20th's "The Last Wagon." I hear this western starring Richard Widmark is another "Shane."

Natalie Wood, who seems to have the teenagers' gift of falling madly in and out of love, with her new big moment, Nicky Blair at the Oyster House.

Louella reports that Ty Power's car can't be mistaken in London. Has a special license 'TP-1' on it. That's all today.

In summer when more of you shows, dramatize a decollete through skin care and make-up.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Decollete Make-Up

This is the season when the face, shoulders, throat, and bosom are more noticeable when subjected to the searching light of summertime. The sun can be a wonderful ally in your quest for vital new color and health. But, it is also your severest critic.

All this skin exposed to decollete may show up muddy and blemished. It probably needs some preparatory work before an evening out. A recommended skin conditioner is both simple and inexpensive. Simply fill a small cheesecloth bag with oatmeal and drop it into your bath. When it becomes moistened, you will notice that the bath water is milky. Pat the bag over face, neck, and shoulders. Let the oatmeal dry on the face, removing it just before you step from the tub. This treatment will soften and bleach the face and the body at the same time.

Another time add equal parts of oatmeal and almond meal and put a drop of your favorite perfume into the bag. Place in bath water as before. If you find that your skin is sensitive to almond meal, use only the oatmeal.

For evening make-up accent throat, shoulders, and bosom with the same tones that complement your facial complexion. Take a final look in a good light, and be sure that make-up blends smoothly at the jawline and under the chin. A liquid oil make-up foundation will spread easily and give a smooth satin sheen. If you need a cover-up for small blemishes a tinted cream-cake or beauty-stick will be better.

Be sure that the chest and bosom make-up extend a good inch below the top of your gown. This prevents any startling line of demarcation if your dress slips as you move.

Tomorrow: Let down your hair.

The actual bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	3 diamonds	3 hearts
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of hearts.

The lone ace of trumps frequently carries explosive properties and in today's hand proved to be a lethal weapon against its possessor.

The manner in which North and South reached their game contract reveals a distinct lack of resourcefulness. North's response of three diamonds is not well chosen. A mere temporizing bid of two clubs is far better strategy. Instead of competing at four diamonds, South might have tried the more enterprising call of three no trump relying on partner to produce something in clubs. At that contract declared would have had a cinch for nine tricks.

West opened the deuce of hearts and declarer's outlook was anything but bright. In addition to the ace of trumps he would almost surely have to give up two club tricks, for East's bid at the three level more or less marked him with the ace of clubs. However, declarer saw a chance to steal the hand if he could find a favorable distribution of the cards. After winning the opening lead, he entered dummy with the king of spades and led a diamond. East, unmindful of the danger of stripping himself to the bare ace of trumps, played low and declarer's queen held. The queen of hearts was then played and declarer decided to cash only one more spade leading to the ace. Then a diamond put East in to force a suicidal lead. Declarer had met with a bit of luck, for if at this point, East possessed a third spade he had an easy exit. Perhaps a better play by declarer, after winning the queen of diamonds, would have been to cash the queen of spades and then lead to dummy's ace. If East had to ruff with the ace of trumps, the contract was assured and if East ruffs with the jack of diamonds it would mean that the contract probably could not have been made anyhow.

Had East made a quick grab of the ace of diamonds and then a graceful exit, declarer would have been doomed.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 30—(INS)—After reading enough scripts, stories and plays to mak him woozey, Hal Wallis has at last bought the yarn that brings Elvis Presley to the screen, "The Lonesome Cowboy," Margaret Agnes Thompson's Good Housekeeping Magazine yarn.

With this momentous news for the rock 'n' roll addicts of the Presley cult settled, it can be added that Elvis is due in Hollywood for conferences with Wallis on August 1. It's about a country boy singer whose records become the rage and he falls into the hands of sharpies, a vaguely familiar theme. Herbert Baker will write the script.

This is the first movie news about Lilli in a long time. While her estranged mate Rex Harrison has been wowing them in "My Fair Lady" on Broadway, Lilli has been appearing on the stage in Europe.

The picture with Carlos is about a woman married to a wealthy man who, believing she's dying, has an affair she regrets. The locations are Munich and Majorca. Carlos played Franz Lizst in "Magic Fire" made in Europe last year, and he's due for a break that will make Hollywood producers take notice.

Jerome Cappi, whose "The Immortal City," filmed entirely within the Vatican, will be released worldwide this fall, has paved the way for another big coup — filming the life stories of Michelangelo, Venvenuto Cellini, Raphael, Titian and other great masters for theatre, screen and TV.

With John Farrow, Aldous Huxley and Grahame Greene being negotiated to author the screen plays (Farrow to direct three of the classics as well) this is really an artistic triumph. The Italian government as well as the Vatican had to give permission for this project. William Hebert, just returned from conferences with Cappi in Rome, will represent the American end of the deal.

Frank Sinatra is fast becoming the "Biography Kid." Joe Pasternak's life story (and good, too) "Easy The Hard Way" has been sent to Frank in Spain, Sinatra being Joe's own choice to portray him on the screen. Nicholas Brodsky and Sammy Cahn have already written a theme song of the title which was also sent to Sinatra.

Point is, when is he going to get time to make it. First up, he has the Joe E. Lewis book, "Joker Is Wild" at Paramount. Then "Pal Joey" with Kim Novak at Columbia. Plus another for his independent company and on and on and on.

Hollywood in shorts: Pier Angeli arrived in New York over the weekend with a sprained wrist from moving furniture. She'll spend a week with Vic Damone before planing to Paris for "The Vintage."

Rock Hudson is the very relaxed possessor of the only king sized bed in all Africa. The management of the Stanley Hotel in Nairobi had it made up for the six foot star and now it's of more value than his "Something Of Value."

Lots of fun planned for the first chuck wagon preview which will be held in the lobby of a Valley theatre in connection with the showing of 20th's "The Last Wagon." I hear this western starring Richard Widmark is another "Shane."

Natalie Wood, who seems to have the teenagers' gift of falling madly in and out of love, with her new big moment, Nicky Blair at the Oyster House.

Louella reports that Ty Power's car can't be mistaken in London. Has a special license 'TP-1' on it.

That's all today.

In summer when more of you shows, dramatize a decollete through skin care and make-up.

Secrets Of Charm

Decollete Make-Up

This is the season when the face, shoulders, throat, and bosom are more noticeable when subjected to the searching light of summertime. The sun can be a wonderful ally in your quest for vital new color and health. But, it is also your severest critic.

All this skin exposed to decollete may show up muddy and blemished. It probably needs some preparatory work before an evening out. A recommended skin conditioner is both simple and inexpensive. Simply fill a small cheesecloth bag with oatmeal and drop it into your bath. When it becomes moistened, you will notice that the bath water is milky. Pat the bag over face, neck, and shoulders. Let the oatmeal dry on the face, removing it just before you step from the tub. This treatment will soften and bleach the face and the body at the same time.

Another time add equal parts of oatmeal and almond meal and put a drop of your favorite perfume into the bag. Place in bath water as before. If you find that your skin is sensitive to almond meal, use only the oatmeal.

For evening make-up accent throat, shoulders, and bosom with the same tones that complement your facial complexion. Take a final look in a good light, and be sure that make-up blends smoothly at the jawline and under the chin. A liquid oil make-up foundation will spread easily and give a smooth satin sheen. If you need a cover-up for small blemishes a tinted cream-cake or beauty-stick will be better.

Be sure that the chest and bosom make-up extend a good inch below the top of your gown. This prevents any startling line of demarcation if your dress slips as you move.

Tomorrow: Let down your hair.

The actual bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	3 diamonds	3 hearts
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of hearts.

The lone ace of trumps frequently carries explosive properties and in today's hand proved to be a lethal weapon against its possessor.

The manner in which North and South reached their game contract reveals a distinct lack of resourcefulness. North's response of three diamonds is not well chosen. A mere temporizing bid of two clubs is far better strategy. Instead of competing at four diamonds, South might have tried the more enterprising call of three no trump relying on partner to produce something in clubs. At that contract declared would have had a cinch for nine tricks.

West opened the deuce of hearts and declarer's outlook was anything but bright. In addition to the ace of trumps he would almost surely have to give up two club tricks, for East's bid at the three level more or less marked him with the ace of clubs. However, declarer saw a chance to steal the hand if he could find a favorable distribution of the cards. After winning the opening lead, he entered dummy with the king of spades and led a diamond. East, unmindful of the danger of stripping himself to the bare ace of trumps, played low and declarer's queen held. The queen of hearts was then played and declarer decided to cash only one more spade leading to the ace. Then a diamond put East in to force a suicidal lead. Declarer had met with a bit of luck, for if at this point, East possessed a third spade he had an easy exit. Perhaps a better play by declarer, after winning the queen of diamonds, would have been to cash the queen of spades and then lead to dummy's ace. If East had to ruff with the ace of trumps, the contract was assured and if East ruffs with the jack of diamonds it would mean that the contract probably could not have been made anyhow.

Had East made a quick grab of the ace of diamonds and then a graceful exit, declarer would have been doomed.

When the opening gavel sounds in Chicago August 13th at the Democratic convention, and again at San Francisco where the Republicans will come to order on August 20th, YOU can be on the scene with the network commentators! The TV cable will take you there day after day, night after night, delivering the clearest pictures from the most stations, as picked up by our community antenna!

And the political conventions are "only the beginning"! Why go on missing the great things in store for cable viewers? Why not enjoy "cable quality" when you watch football and the World Series and the November election, too? Our installation crews are busy, connecting more and more homes to the cable, so DON'T DELAY!

Aircraft, Steels Develop Declining Mixed Market

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — Strength by steels and aircrafts developed today to mix a stock market which was declining earlier as oils continued under pressure.

Still deeply affected by uncertainty over the Suez Canal situation, oil firms with heavy interests in the Middle East fell for the second session. They put on a similar performance in the London Stock Market.

But losses in oil shares were lessened in the afternoon as steels, firm from the start, stretched their gains and aircrafts awakened to help give the market a shove towards the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 20 cents to $189.40 with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities also down 10 cents.

Of the 1,134 issues traded there were 442 advances to 438 declines. There were 35 new highs for the day and 18 new lows.

ACF-Wrigley Stores was the most active stock, up 2⅛ at 19½ on 43,100 shares. Second was U.S. Steel, up 1¾ at 64¼ on 39,600 shares. Third was Sperry Rand, up ⅝ at 26⅝ on 38,900.

Next came Royal Dutch, off 1⅞ and Gulf Oil, off 2¾ at 107½.

Standard Oil (NJ) off 1¼, Standard Oil (Calif) off ¾ and Sunray Oil, up 1, were other oils which were heavily traded.

Amerada, with little to worry about in the Middle East, raced ahead 4¼. Shamrock Oil, down around 3 points earlier, closed with a loss of a point following the news of the fire and explosion at its tank farm in Dumas, Texas.

Bethlehem Steel scampered ahead 3½ now that labor peace has descended over the steel industry. Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube each advanced 1¼.

The late starting aircrafts went ahead with Boeing up 2 points, Douglas 1, General Dynamics 1⅞ and United ⅛.

Aircraft, Steels Develop Declining Mixed Market

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — Strength by steels and aircrafts developed today to mix a stock market which was declining earlier as oils continued under pressure.

Still deeply affected by uncertainty over the Suez Canal situation, oil firms with heavy interests in the Middle East fell for the second session. They put on a similar performance in the London Stock Market.

But losses in oil shares were lessened in the afternoon as steels, firm from the start, stretched their gains and aircrafts awakened to help give the market a shove towards the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 20 cents to $189.40 with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities also down 10 cents.

Of the 1,134 issues traded there were 442 advances to 438 declines. There were 35 new highs for the day and 18 new lows.

ACF-Wrigley Stores was the most active stock, up 2⅛ at 19½ on 43,100 shares. Second was U.S. Steel, up 1¾ at 64¼ on 39,600 shares. Third was Sperry Rand, up ⅝ at 26⅝ on 38,900.

Next came Royal Dutch, off 1⅞ at 107¾ and Gulf Oil, off 2¾ at 137½.

Standard Oil (NJ) off 1¼, Standard Oil (Calif) off ¾ and Sunray Oil, up 1, were other oils which were heavily traded.

Amerada, with little to worry about in the Middle East, raced ahead 4¼. Shamrock Oil, down around 3 points earlier, closed with a loss of a point following the news of the fire and explosion at its tank farm in Dumas, Texas.

Bethlehem Steel scampered ahead 3½ now that labor peace has descended over the steel industry. Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube each advanced 1¼.

The late starting aircrafts went ahead with Boeing up 2 points, Douglas 1, General Dynamics 1⅞ and United ⅛.

Fall Meeting Of River Group Set In Oakland

Recreation, Wildlife Assets To Be Stressed

The fall meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin will be held September 20 and 21 in Oakland.

Conservation of recreation and wildlife assets of the Potomac River Basin has been chosen as the theme for the meeting, which will be held in the William James Hotel.

Officials are planning an informal dinner and get together at the hotel on the night of September 19.

The meeting will open September 20 at 9:15 a. m. with the keynote address by Ernest F. Swift, executive director of the National Wildlife Federation.

Brief reports on current recreational assets and programs in each of the Potomac Basin states will follow.

Will Tour Area

In the afternoon, Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, will lead the delegates on a tour of the area.

Included will be visits to Deep Creek Lake, the Savage River Dam and the Savage River State Forest.

From there, the delegates will be taken to Swallow Falls and to the Herrington Manor Recreation Area for a campride barbecue.

Arrangements have been made with the Red Cross for canoeing demonstrations at the 53-acre park at Herrington Manor.

At USO Dedication

John R. Pfeiffer (right) son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pfeiffer, this city, was among a number of area service men at the formal opening of a new USO Club in Pittsburgh. Shown with him are Jerry Spagnuolo of New York, and Mrs. Joan Neil of White Hall, Pa., a representative of the Junior Federation of Women's Clubs and a hostess at the opening.

Area Interest Is Noted In USO Clubs And Program

The United Service Organizations, Inc., known to all servicemen and many civilians as the USO, is continuing to expand its program of entertainment for the men and women away from home, Col. Randolph Millholland, local USO chairman and a member of the state campaign committee, has been advised.

Col. Millholland receives frequent communications from state and national headquarters of the USO, advising him of work being done for men and women in the armed services by the USO. Recently the USO opened a new club in Pittsburgh. The opening was attended by many dignitaries, members of the Allegheny United Fund Board as well as representatives from Maryland and Ohio USO committees.

Selected members of the military in the area were invited to attend a luncheon given in their honor following the formal cutting of ribbons opening the doors. John R. Pfeiffer, 755 Maryland Avenue, this city, was among the invited Maryland military.

The USO state and national committees point out, Col. Millholland said that the organization derives its funds from Community Chests and United Funds across the country. It includes among its affiliated agencies, The YMCA, the National Catholic Community Service, the National Jewish Welfare Board, the YWCA, the Salvation Army, the Travelers Aid Association and Camp Shows, Inc.

Col. Millholland said that when it is remembered that there are upwards of 2,000 or more men and women from this county and vicinity still in uniform, the activities of the USO are of considerable interest here. Although Cumberland is not near enough to a military or naval base to make the operation of a USO necessary, the community has an interest in the operation of these clubs and programs, as long as their young people need and utilize them, he commented.

County Tax Discount Will Drop

Today is the deadline for those taxpayers of Allegany County who wish to take advantage of the four per cent discount on county real estate and personal property tax payments.

J. Wallace Close, tax collector, said yesterday that beginning tomorrow the discount will be reduced to three per cent and by the first of September no discount would be allowed.

At that time interest on unpaid taxes for the calendar year 1956 begins accumulating. The interest on back taxes increases one-half per cent each month, starting at one-half per cent.

About $100,000 is expected to be collected at the Court House office this month. It is open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Tax offices are also located in Frostburg and Lonaconing.

Textile Union Board Opposes Fluoridation

Resolutions opposing the fluoridation of the Cumberland water supply have been mailed to the Mayor and Council and to federal legislators by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (AFL-CIO).

Melvin Harris, president, said the resolution was passed on July 17 by the executive board of the 2,700 member Celanese local.

The resolution points out that many cities have rejected the program either by referendum or vote of the city council and that there are many alternatives to the plan to add fluorine to the public water supply.

Meeting Schedule

The Optimist Club will hold its weekly meeting Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA. The Board of Directors will meet at the home of Newton Evans, 851 Gephart Drive, following the regular meeting.

Next week's meeting will be in the form of a summer outing. It will be held at 6:15 p. m. at Lark Inn, Paw Paw, W. Va.

Runaway Car Chases Three From In Front Of House

Three local residents escaped possible serious injury yesterday evening when they were forced to jump out of the way of an auto which went out of control on West Oldtown Road.

City police said last night that three motor vehicles charges will be placed against Francis Joseph Weisenmiller, of 137 Pennsylvania Avenue, driver of the car, who was arrested at his home.

Sgt. Clarence Roby said that Weisenmiller was rounding the turn from Thomas Street onto West Oldtown Road. The car struck the medial strip and after the driver apparently "gunned" the motor it went out of control and up over the curb onto the sidewalk and came to a halt in the doorway at 225 West Oldtown Road.

Police said that Mrs. Flora George and her child of that address and Mrs. Maynard J. Foreman, who lives at the corner of Gay Street and Oldtown Road had to jump out of the way of the car to escape injury.

Meanwhile the driver backed the car up and drove on to his home. Police said that he will be charged with the violation of three motor vehicle laws including reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

The mishap occurred about 7:15 p. m. The auto and part of the doorway of the residence was damaged in the accident.

Investigating with Sergeant Roby were Officers E. Gordon Hite and Royce Clayton.

Chief Reports Slight Decline In July Fires

A slight decline in local fires during the month of July in comparison to the same period last year was cited yesterday by Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

This month city firemen answered 16 calls up until today while last year 19 alarms were recorded in the same period.

Chief Parker attributes the low number of fires to supervised burning of grass and high weeds, especially on lots in South Cumberland, the consistent amount of rainfall this month. He also said the inspection branch of the Fire Department headed by Assistant Chief Vincent Wegman has helped.

Most of the calls answered this month were of a minor nature, Chief Parker added. He pointed out the danger of traffic congestion along fire lanes of the city when fire equipment is called into action.

Liberty Street's fire lane causes the most congestion due to the narrow street and also motorists illegally parking on the street.

East Side's fire lane extends from Marshall Street to Bedford Street and from there to Henderson Avenue. A red warning light has been installed by the department at Marshall and Bedford streets for use when that company answers call north, south or west in the city limits.

South End has two lanes and also two sirens to warn motorists and pedestrians the truck is on the way. A lane is from the station on Third Street west to Virginia Avenue.

A siren is located at the corner of Third and Virginia Avenue. Another siren is in operation at Fifth Street and Virginia Avenue.

Greene Street is the fire lane of West Side. Chief Parker urges motorists not to block fire lanes as serious injuries to persons or property damage could result as the equipment is being dispatched to a call.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mace, 616 Shriver Avenue, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick T. Jones, Keyser, W. Va., a daughter yesterday.

City Budget Talks May Open Soon

Departments Asked To Submit Requests

Budget talks are slated to begin next week, City Hall sources reported yesterday.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long yesterday asked all department heads to have budget requests in this week.

By law, August 25 is the dead line for the setting of the levy.

To date, three requests have been received, and two of them seek increased appropriations.

The Mayor and Council some time ago passed an order pledging an appropriation of $33,113.49 to Allegany County for health activities formerly provided by the City Health Department. Mayor Roy W. Eves has estimated the new health financing plan will save the city $7,475.51.

The Cumberland Free Public Library has asked $37,679, an increase of $11,679 over last year's $26,000 appropriation.

The Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra has asked for a $1,500 appropriation. Last year the city made a $250 contribution to the cultural activity.

Men Find Snake Den, Kill Seven

Such an experience was had by Jack Stegmaier the other day when he and a friend from Wiley Ford were picking tomatoes on his father's farm on Collier Mountain east of Cumberland.

Jack and Frank Gillespie were at work picking tomatoes on the farm of Theodore Stegmaier when a den of snakes was located.

Using hoes, they killed seven copperheads which measured about two feet in length. And they also came across about 17 eggs in a nest of straw.

Further probing disclosed that there was a six foot black snake in the vicinity. Jack kept about 13 of the eggs and has placed them in straw to incubate.

He is a student at the University of Maryland, where he is studying horticulture.

City Building Permits Pass Million Mark

Totals compiled by the City Engineering Department show that permits valued at $108,595 were issued during July.

This brings the total for the first six months of 1956 to $1,037,100.

Last year, July permits totaled only $81,050, bringing the half-year total to $984,341. By the end of the year, permits totaling $1,481,986 had been issued.

The July permits include 12 residences valued at $96,600, one garage for $525, one outside toilet at $150, three additions to residences $2,525, a $400 addition to a business and two improvements to residences valued at $345. The moving of three dwellings was estimated to cost $8,050.

New construction jobs were valued at $97,275 and additions to existing structures at $3,270.

$27,639 Surplus For Year Cited In Water Funds

$495,694 Revenue Reported By Gibson

Water Department revenues from the sale of water rose from $388,695.62 in the 1954-55 fiscal year to $495,694.94 during the fiscal year which ended June 30, according to preliminary figures prepared by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

The tentative figures show that the department ended the 1955-56 fiscal year with $27,639.94 of excess revenues over expenditures.

The year before, the department had excess expenditures of $74,120.73 over income.

To offset the loss, a new rate schedule, designed to bring in an additional $100,000 of water revenues, was adopted.

More than half of the surplus will be taken for higher debt service on Water Department bonds.

The debt service costs will be increased due to the issuance of a $750,000 bond issue, sold last year, to finance the North Branch water line and current modernization at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

The interest due in the 1956-57 fiscal year for this issue will total $18,250, and only about $4,714 of this is chargeable to the past fiscal year.

Warnick Named To Forestry Supervisor Post

Wilson R. Warnick, about 32, of Lonaconing, has been appointed a forest supervisor, grade 2, effective July 25.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said yesterday that Warnick, who is a native of Garrett County, will be in charge of the Big Run Recreation Area in the Savage River State Forest.

He competed with about six others in a Civil Service examination given by the Commissioner of Personnel for the State of Maryland and placed first in the test.

Warnick is a veteran of World War II. Prior to his new appointment he was a towerman at the High Rock tower on Savage Mountain for a period of years and also was a laborer in the New Germany Recreation Area.

Johnson pointed out yesterday that plans are underway to rebuild a number of cottages already located in the Big Run Recreation Area.

The state has allocated funds for the installation of a water system and plans also call for the construction of a sewage disposal unit there.

Big Run Recreation Area is located at the head of the Savage River Lake.

Fire Is Attempted At Centre St. Church

Yesterday evening city police got a call from a local resident that someone was attempting to build a fire in one of the doorways at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Officer John Powers went to the church to check the complaint. It is believed that children were to blame. City Police Detective George Furstenburg also investigated.

Playlot Group To Meet

The Centre Street Playground Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. on the playground.

Local Seabee Helps Build First Church At South Pole

A local Seabee is one of 93 who have assisted a Catholic priest in erecting the first church near the South Pole.

He is Chief Surveyor William T. Lease, whose wife and four children live at 45 Greene Street. His wife is the former Miss Grace Bennett of Columbia Street. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lue T. Lease, 16 Harrison Street.

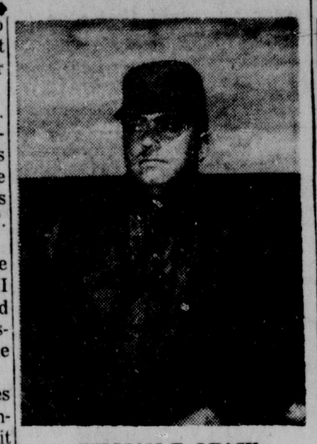

Lease has been in the service since 1941. During World War II he was in the South Pacific and helped build air strips on the islands which were used for the aerial invasion of Japan.

Braving sub-zero temperatures and sometimes working in complete darkness, Rev. John Condit of Jefferson City, Mo., and the Seabees to whom he is chaplain have built the "Chapel in the Snow" at McMurdo Sound, one of two American bases near the South Pole.

The Seabees are in the Antarctic preparing bases for the "invasion" in October by American scientists who will participate with 11 other nations in an extensive scientific exploration of the "unknown continent."

Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Navy ships and planes left the Antarctic in February after making an initial exploratory expedition. The Seabees remained.

"The men devoted their spare time to building the church and the design was entirely through their suggestion," Father Condit said. "The body of the church is shaped like a quonset hut and in the front is a vestibule that measures eight feet square. Above the vestibule is a steeple about 10 feet high, then a cupola topped by a cross."

Fun Festival Is Planned At Columbia Street

The fun festival of Columbia Street Playground will be held Wednesday through Friday.

The festival, sponsored by the playground association, will get under way each night at 7:30 o'clock.

Games, cake walks, bake sales and square dancing to figures called by Joseph Seibert, are planned.

Playground activities of the week include a meeting of the teenage club today at 7:30 p. m. and a meeting of the playground association at 8 p. m. to complete plans for the float for the city playground parade.

A picnic will be held tomorrow at 11:30 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. a live pet show. Pets must either be caged or leashed.

Children from Columbia Street Playground who plan to attend Saturday's fishing rodeo should register by Friday, so transportation can be provided.

Allegheny Sets Record For Passenger Miles

Allegheny Airlines flew 7,063,317 passenger miles in June for the highest month in the company's history, President Leslie O. Barnes announces.

June traffic, which was approximately 17 per cent over the same month last year, exceeded the company's previous "record" month (July 1955) by more than 12 per cent.

During the first six months in 1956, Allegheny flew 29,472,000 passenger miles for an increase of approximately 23 per cent over the same period last year.

While the June traffic increase was general over Allegheny's Middle Atlantic States system, officials stated, the company's new non-stop flights between Pittsburgh and Atlantic City showed marked growth.

Area Youths Show Interest In Air Force

Enlistments Stay At High Level

Interest in enlistment in the United States Air Force remains at a high level here, with 28 area men volunteering during the month of July and 55 enlisted during the month of June.

Sgt. James C. Owens, local Air Force recruiter, said Cumberland appears to be a very "air-minded" city and more and more young men and women are seeking careers in the Air Force. Many are taking advantage of in-training educational opportunities, he said.

Announcing his quota for August, Sgt. Owens said he can enlist 19 recruits during the month.

Under a new plan, he noted also, recruits are now sent from the local station to Baltimore by bus, where they are formally enlisted and processed. They then travel from Baltimore to San Antonio, Texas, by commercial air lines, which means they take their oath of enlistment in Baltimore and on the same day they arrive at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas to begin their basic training.

Flying the men to Lackland saves them and the Air Force several days on the training cycle and gets the men through basic several days before, when they traveled by bus or train.

Of the 28 men enlisting here in July, eight were Marylanders and four of these are from Cumberland; nine were Pennsylvanians and 11 are from West Virginia. Sgt. Owens accepts qualified enlistments from Allegany, Garrett, Mineral and Bedford counties, and on occasion has enlisted men from other areas who happened to be vacationing or working here temporarily.

Donald N. Wentling, Hinkle Road; Emory R. Lonahue, LaVale; Elwood G. Norris, 511 Dilley Street; Raymond J. Brown Jr., 701 Baker Street; William J. Speir, RFD 1, Frostburg; Stephen W. Wainer, 48 Green Street, Oakland; Roger N. Fazenbaker, 217 Spruce Street, and Carlton R. Ahern Jr., 209 Rock Street, Westernport.

James E. Gilmore, 3 Paxton Street, and James R. Coleman, 27 Paxton Street, Piedmont; Carl R. Jewell, 7 Potomac Heights, Ridgeley; Donald G. Meese, Wiley Ford; Edgar A. Woods, Paw Paw; and James A. Smith Jr., Rig, W. Va.

Area Youngster Drowning Victim In Juniata River

David F. Bollman, 11, Was On Fishing Trip

A summer vacation ended in tragedy yesterday afternoon when an 11-year-old youngster drowned in the Juniata River, at Riddlesburg, Pa., about 20 miles northeast of Bedford.

The victim was David F. Bollman, who lived in Riddlesburg with his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bollman. A companion of Bollman, Fred Kelly, 12, also of Riddlesburg, swam to safety after the two boys leaped into the water after their rowboat broke away from anchor along the shore.

Bollman was reported to have had a pair of galoshes on and was unable to kick them off after he leaped into the water. Volunteer firemen reported to the scene and one of the firemen located the child's body in about 12 feet of water, authorities said.

The two boys were fishing and had anchored the boat to the shore. When it broke away from its mooring the lads jumped into the river.

The tragedy occurred about 3:45 p. m. (EST) according to Pennsylvania State Police, who investigated. The youth was capable of swimming.

County Tax Discount Will Drop

Today is the deadline for those taxpayers of Allegany County who wish to take advantage of the four per cent discount on county real estate and personal property tax payments.

J. Wallace Close, tax collector, said yesterday that beginning tomorrow the discount will be reduced to three per cent and by the first of September no discount would be allowed.

At that time interest on unpaid taxes for the calendar year 1956 begins accumulating. The interest on back taxes increases one-half per cent each month, starting at one-half per cent.

About $100,000 is expected to be collected at the Court House office this month. It is open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Tax offices are also located in Frostburg and Lonaconing.

Textile Union Board Opposes Fluoridation

Resolutions opposing the fluoridation of the Cumberland water supply have been mailed to the Mayor and Council and to federal legislators by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (AFL-CIO).

Melvin Harris, president, said the resolution was passed on July 17 by the executive board of the 2,700 member Celanese local.

The resolution points out that many cities have rejected the program either by referendum or vote of the city council and that there are many alternatives to the plan to add fluorine to the public water supply.

At USO Dedication

John R. Pfeiffer (right) son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pfeiffer, this city, was among a number of area service men at the formal opening of a new USO Club in Pittsburgh. Shown with him are Jerry Spagnuolo of New York, and Mrs. Joan Neil of White Hall, Pa., a representative of the Junior Federation of Women's Clubs and a hostess at the opening.

Area Interest Is Noted In USO Clubs And Program

The United Service Organizations, Inc., known to all servicemen and many civilians as the USO, is continuing to expand its program of entertainment for the men and women away from home, Col. Randolph Millholland, local USO chairman and a member of the state campaign committee, has been advised.

Col. Millholland receives frequent communications from state and national headquarters of the USO, advising him of work being done for men and women in the armed services by the USO. Recently the USO opened a new club in Pittsburgh. The opening was attended by many dignitaries, members of the Allegheny United Fund Board as well as representatives from Maryland and Ohio USO committees.

Selected members of the military in the area were invited to attend a luncheon given in their honor following the formal cutting of ribbons opening the doors. John R. Pfeiffer, 755 Maryland Avenue, this city, was among the invited Maryland military.

The USO state and national committees point out, Col. Millholland said that the organization derives its funds from Community Chests and United Funds across the country. It includes among its affiliated agencies, The YMCA, the National Catholic Community Service, the National Jewish Welfare Board, the YWCA, the Salvation Army, the Travelers Aid Association and Camp Shows, Inc.

Col. Millholland said that when it is remembered that there are upwards of 2,000 or more men and women from this county and vicinity still in uniform, the activities of the USO are of considerable interest here. Although Cumberland is not near enough to a military or naval base to make the operation of a USO necessary, the community has an interest in the operation of these clubs and programs, as long as their young people need and utilize them, he commented.

Meeting Schedule

The Optimist Club will hold its weekly meeting Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA. The Board of Directors will meet at the home of Newton Evans, 851 Gephart Drive, following the regular meeting.

Next week's meeting will be in the form of a summer outing. It will be held at 6:15 p. m. at Lark Inn, Paw Paw, W. Va.

Chief Reports Slight Decline In July Fires

A slight decline in local fires during the month of July in comparison to the same period last year was cited yesterday by Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

This month city firemen answered 16 calls up until today while last year 19 alarms were recorded in the same period.

Chief Parker attributes the low number of fires to supervised burning of grass and high weeds, especially on lots in South Cumberland, the consistent amount of rainfall this month. He also said the inspection branch of the Fire Department headed by Assistant Chief Vincent Wegman has helped.

Most of the calls answered this month were of a minor nature, Chief Parker added. He pointed out the danger of traffic congestion along fire lanes of the city when fire equipment is called into action.

Liberty Street's fire lane causes the most congestion due to the narrow street and also motorists illegally parking on the street.

East Side's fire lane extends from Marshall Street to Bedford Street and from there to Henderson Avenue. A red warning light has been installed by the department at Marshall and Bedford streets for use when that company answers call north, south or west in the city limits.

South End has two lanes and also two sirens to warn motorists and pedestrians the truck is on the way. A lane is from the station on Third Street west to Virginia Avenue.

A siren is located at the corner of Third and Virginia Avenue. Another siren is in operation at Fifth Street and Virginia Avenue.

Greene Street is the fire lane of West Side. Chief Parker urges motorists not to block fire lanes as serious injuries to persons or property damage could result as the equipment is being dispatched to a call.

Runaway Car Chases Three From In Front Of House

Three local residents escaped possible serious injury yesterday evening when they were forced to jump out of the way of an auto which went out of control on West Oldtown Road.

City police said last night that three motor vehicles charges will be placed against Francis Joseph Weisenmiller, of 137 Pennsylvania Avenue, driver of the car, who was arrested at his home.

Sgt. Clarence Roby said that Weisenmiller was rounding the turn from Thomas Street onto West Oldtown Road. The car struck the medial strip and after the driver apparently "gunned" the motor it went out of control and up over the curb onto the sidewalk and came to a halt in the doorway at 225 West Oldtown Road.

Police said that Mrs. Flora George and her child of that address and Mrs. Maynard J. Foreman, who lives at the corner of Gay Street and Oldtown Road had to jump out of the way of the car to escape injury.

Meanwhile the driver backed the car up and drove on to his home. Police said that he will be charged with the violation of three motor vehicle laws including reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

The mishap occurred about 7:15 p. m. The auto and part of the doorway of the residence was damaged in the accident.

Investigating with Sergeant Roby were Officers E. Gordon Hite and Royce Clayton.

City Budget Talks May Open Soon

Departments Asked To Submit Requests

Budget talks are slated to begin next week, City Hall sources reported yesterday.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long yesterday asked all department heads to have budget requests in this week.

By law, August 25 is the dead line for the setting of the levy.

To date, three requests have been received, and two of them seek increased appropriations.

The Mayor and Council some time ago passed an order pledging an appropriation of $33,113.49 to Allegany County for health activities formerly provided by the City Health Department. Mayor Roy W. Eves has estimated the new health financing plan will save the city $7,475.51.

The Cumberland Free Public Library has asked $37,679, an increase of $11,679 over last year's $26,000 appropriation.

The Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra has asked for a $1,500 appropriation. Last year the city made a $250 contribution to the cultural activity.

Men Find Snake Den, Kill Seven

Did you ever wonder what it is like to come across a den of snakes while working on a farm?

Such an experience was had by Jack Stegmaier the other day when he and a friend from Wiley Ford were picking tomatoes on his father's farm on Collier Mountain east of Cumberland.

Jack and Frank Gillespie were at work picking tomatoes on the farm of Theodore Stegmaier when a den of snakes was located.

Using hoes, they killed seven copperheads which measured about two feet in length. And they also came across about 17 eggs in a nest of straw.

Further probing disclosed that there was a six foot black snake in the vicinity. Jack kept about 13 of the eggs and has placed them in straw to incubate.

He is a student at the University of Maryland, where he is studying horticulture.

City Building Permits Pass Million Mark

Building permits issued by the City of Cumberland passed the $1,000,000 mark this month.

Totals compiled by the City Engineering Department show that permits valued at $108,595 were issued during July.

This brings the total for the first six months of 1956 to $1,037,100.

Last year, July permits totaled only $81,050, bringing the half-year total to $984,341. By the end of the year, permits totaling $1,481,986 had been issued.

The July permits include 12 residences valued at $96,600, one garage for $525, one outside toilet at $150, three additions to residences $2,525, a $400 addition to a business and two improvements to residences valued at $345. The moving of three dwellings was estimated to cost $8,050.

New construction jobs were valued at $97,275 and additions to existing structures at $3,270.

$27,639 Surplus For Year Cited In Water Funds

$495,694 Revenue Reported By Gibson

Water Department revenues from the sale of water rose from $388,695.62 in the 1954-55 fiscal year to $495,694.94 during the fiscal year which ended June 30, according to preliminary figures prepared by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

The tentative figures show that the department ended the 1955-56 fiscal year with $27,639.94 of excess revenues over expenditures.

The year before, the department had excess expenditures of $74,120.73 over income.

To offset the loss, a new rate schedule, designed to bring in an additional $100,000 of water revenues, was adopted.

More than half of the surplus will be taken for higher debt service on Water Department bonds.

The debt service costs will be increased due to the issuance of a $750,000 bond issue, sold last year, to finance the North Branch water line and current modernization at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

The interest due in the 1956-57 fiscal year for this issue will total $18,250, and only about $4,714 of this is chargeable to the past fiscal year.

Warnick Named To Forestry Supervisor Post

Wilson R. Warnick, about 32, of Lonaconing, has been appointed a forest supervisor, grade 2, effective July 25.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said yesterday that Warnick, who is a native of Garrett County, will be in charge of the Big Run Recreation Area in the Savage River State Forest.

He competed with about six others in a Civil Service examination given by the Commissioner of Personnel for the State of Maryland and placed first in the test.

Warnick is a veteran of World War II. Prior to his new appointment he was a towerman at the High Rock tower on Savage Mountain for a period of years and also was a laborer in the New Germany Recreation Area.

Johnson pointed out yesterday that plans are underway to rebuild a number of cottages already located in the Big Run Recreation Area.

The state has allocated funds for the installation of a water system and plans also call for the construction of a sewage disposal unit there.

Big Run Recreation Area is located at the head of the Savage River Lake.

Fire Is Attempted At Centre St. Church

Someone apparently doesn't like to attend Sunday School.

Yesterday evening city police got a call from a local resident that someone was attempting to build a fire in one of the doorways at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Officer John Powers went to the church to check the complaint. It is believed that children were to blame. City Police Detective George Furstenburg also investigated.

Playlot Group To Meet

The Centre Street Playground Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. on the playground.

Local Seabee Helps Build First Church At South Pole

A local Seabee is one of 93 who have assisted a Catholic priest in erecting the first church near the South Pole.

He is Chief Surveyor William T. Lease, whose wife and four children live at 45 Greene Street. His wife is the former Miss Grace Bennett of Columbia Street. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lue T. Lease, 16 Harrison Street.

Lease has been in the service since 1941. During World War II he was in the South Pacific and helped build air strips on the islands which were used for the aerial invasion of Japan.

Braving sub-zero temperatures and sometimes working in complete darkness, Rev. John Condit of Jefferson City, Mo., and the Seabees to whom he is chaplain have built the "Chapel in the Snow" at McMurdo Sound, one of two American bases near the South Pole.

The Seabees are in the Antarctic preparing bases for the "invasion" in October by American scientists who will participate with 11 other nations in an extensive scientific exploration of the "unknown continent."

Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Navy ships and planes left the Antarctic in February after making an initial exploratory expedition. The Seabees remained.

"The men devoted their spare time to building the church and the design was entirely through their suggestion," Father Condit said. "The body of the church is shaped like a quonset hut and in the front is a vestibule that measures eight feet square. Above the vestibule is a steeple about 10 feet high, then a cupola topped by a cross."

Allegheny Sets Record For Passenger Miles

Allegheny Airlines flew 7,063,317 passenger miles in June for the highest month in the company's history, President Leslie O. Barnes announces.

June traffic, which was approximately 17 per cent over the same month last year, exceeded the company's previous "record" month (July 1955) by more than 12 per cent.

During the first six months in 1956, Allegheny flew 29,472,000 passenger miles for an increase of approximately 23 per cent over the same period last year.

While the June traffic increase was general over Allegheny's Middle Atlantic States system, officials stated, the company's new non-stop flights between Pittsburgh and Atlantic City showed marked growth.

Area Youths Show Interest In Air Force

Enlistments Stay At High Level

Interest in enlistment in the United States Air Force remains at a high level here, with 28 area men volunteering during the month of July and 55 enlisted during the month of June.

Sgt. James C. Owens, local Air Force recruiter, said Cumberland appears to be a very "air-minded" city and more and more young men and women are seeking careers in the Air Force. Many are taking advantage of in-training educational opportunities, he said.

Announcing his quota for August, Sgt. Owens said he can enlist 19 recruits during the month.

Under a new plan, he noted also, recruits are now sent from the local station to Baltimore by bus, where they are formally enlisted and processed. They then travel from Baltimore to San Antonio, Texas, by commercial air lines, which means they take their oath of enlistment in Baltimore and on the same day they arrive at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas to begin their basic training.

Flying the men to Lackland saves them and the Air Force several days on the training cycle and gets the men through basic several days before, when they traveled by bus or train.

Of the 28 men enlisting here in July, eight were Marylanders and four of these are from Cumberland; nine were Pennsylvanians and 11 are from West Virginia. Sgt. Owens accepts qualified enlistments from Allegany, Garrett, Mineral and Bedford counties, and on occasion has enlisted men from other areas who happened to be vacationing or working here temporarily.

Donald N. Wentling, Hinkle Road; Emory R. Lonahue, LaVale; Elwood G. Norris, 511 Dilley Street; Raymond J. Brown Jr., 701 Baker Street; William J. Speir, RFD 1, Frostburg; Stephen W. Wainer, 48 Green Street, Oakland; Roger N. Fazenbaker, 217 Spruce Street, and Carlton R. Ahern Jr., 209 Rock Street, Westernport.

James E. Gilmore, 3 Paxton Street, and James R. Coleman, 27 Paxton Street, Piedmont; Carl R. Jewell, 7 Potomac Heights, Ridgeley; Donald G. Meese, Wiley Ford; Edgar A. Woods, Paw Paw; and James A. Smith Jr., Rig. W. Va.

George N. Taylor, 413 South Main Street, Eugene D. Kuykendall, Charles F. Knight, 116 Orchard Street, John M. Baker, 31 "A" Street, and Robert C. Turner, RFD 2, all Keyser.
